School of Law

Founded in 1892, the Case Western Reserve University School of Law (http://law.case.edu) is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools and of the national law honorary society, the Order of the Coif. It was among the first law schools accredited by the American Bar Association.

The school has a student body of about 650 and a full-time faculty of about fifty. In the school’s early years, most students came from Ohio and remained in Ohio after graduation. Today, students come from all parts of the country, and there are CWRU law graduates in virtually every state (and in several foreign countries), and certainly in every major U.S. city. An active and aggressive Career Services Office works with students, graduates, and prospective employers from all over the nation to maximize job opportunities.

The Law Library

The law library’s holdings include more than 390,000 books and volume-equivalents, complete collections of federal and state law, law reviews, current law services, an extensive British and Commonwealth collection, and special collections in taxation, labor law, foreign investments, international law, and environmental law. The law library is building strong collections in law and medicine, intellectual property, and law of the European Union. It is a selective depository for both U.S. and Canadian government documents. The law school itself has computer workstations on every floor of the library, providing access to hundreds of electronic services and library catalogs, and a wide range of software services. The university boasts a fast and powerful network and wireless access, and the university network links the law school to the vast resources of the Internet. The law library is a member of OhioLINK, which is a consortium of Ohio’s college and university libraries and the State Library of Ohio. OhioLINK offers access to more than 31 million library items from 79 institutions. These materials include items from law, medical, and special collections.

The law library offers its users access to an ever-expanding list of electronic research databases as well as e-books. Electronic resources are accessible through the library catalog and the Law Library Services page on our website. Web-based databases offered include Lexis/Nexis and Westlaw as well as over 100 OhioLINK databases (including Index to Legal Periodicals and Medline). Many of these OhioLINK databases contain the full text of journal articles. Housed within the law library is a computer laboratory and a computer training classroom.

Special Programs

Litigation Program

Since the mid-1970s, the School of Law has invested heavily in its litigation program. Students practice the basic skills of trial advocacy in such courses as LAWS 6110 Trial Tactics, LAWS 6111 Appellate Practice, and in the co-curricular moot court and mock trial programs.

Study Abroad

The JD program in the law school offers a number of opportunities for students to engage in comparative legal study. The opportunities range from formal semester abroad programs (the School of Law has cooperative agreements with over 16 schools in Canada, Latin America, Europe, and Asia, allowing students to study at the host school for a semester and transfer the completed credits to the CWRU JD program), to various summer study programs, as well as the Case Abroad at Home program, which brings foreign scholars to our campus to offer special one-week intensive courses immediately prior to the start of the fall term each year.

Student Activities

Publications

The School of Law publishes three scholarly journals, all student-edited. The oldest is the Case Western Reserve Law Review, published quarterly. The Journal of International Law is published two to three times a year; the JIL editorial board also has responsibility for the Canada-U.S. Law Journal (sponsored by the Canada-U.S. Law Institute), published once a year. Health Matrix: Journal of Law-Medicine began as a joint undertaking of all six of the university’s professional schools but since 1990, has been sponsored solely by the law school and its Law-Medicine Center.

Competitions

Moot Court

A student board administers the Dean Dunmore Competition, a year-long program in which second-year (and a very few third-year) students participate. It culminates in a round-robin tournament involving 16 finalists. From those finalists, the board selects teams who will compete the following year in the National Moot Court Competition, the Craven Competition in constitutional law, and the Niagara Competition (sponsored by the Canada-U.S. Law Institute). Case Western Reserve also enters the Jessup International Competition; that team is selected by another student group, the Society of International Law Students.

Mock Trial

The Jonathan M. Ault Mock Trial Board sponsors an intramural competition from which emerge the members of interscholastic teams. Currently, the law school sends student representatives to the National Trial Competition, the National Student Trial Competition of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, and a competition sponsored by the Academy of Trial Lawyers of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania.

Regulations and Rules of Conduct

The Academic Regulations of the School of Law are provided to each student upon matriculation through the law school’s website.

In addition to the university’s rules of conduct, law students are expected to comply with the American Bar Association’s Model Code of Professional Responsibility and Model Rules of Professional Conduct, to the extent that these are applicable, and with the law school’s own Code of Conduct. The Model Code and Model Rules are available in the law library. The school’s Code of Conduct, like the Academic Regulations, is provided to each student upon matriculation through the law school’s Intranet website.

Centers of Academic Excellence

Milton A. Kramer Law Clinic Center

The Supreme Court of Ohio authorizes student practice under attorney supervision in the final year of law school. Through the clinic, students provide legal representation to indigent clients and community groups and receive academic credit. The supervising attorneys are full-time members of the law faculty. The clinical program is the capstone of the skills curriculum and offers specialized practice experiences in Criminal Justice, Community Development, Civil Litigation Practice, focused on consumer matters, predatory lending, social security disability, and other public benefit issues, Immigration, Health Law, and Family Law.

Center for Business Law and Regulation
To better prepare its students and future leaders with a thorough understanding of the business issues facing entrepreneurs, entities, and other clients, the School of Law created the Center for Business Law and Regulation. The center focuses on expanding curricular offerings and programs as well as engaging in opportunities for legal, empirical, and interdisciplinary research, assessing the role and impact of government in the regulation of business. The center will also host special lectures and symposia to highlight topics in business law and foster public debate and inquiry regarding business regulation.

Center for the Interdisciplinary Study of Conflict and Dispute Resolution (CICSDR)
During this age of globalization, our world has begun to steadfastly look toward negotiation, mediation, arbitration and other forms of dispute resolution as alternative methods of solving conflict. Since the 1970s, the Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) movement has gained momentum in judicial and academic circles and is currently reflected in courses in most law schools, while the number of established mediation and arbitration practices continues to rise. To best prepare students for meeting these societal and legal changes, the School of Law has established the Center for the Interdisciplinary Study of Conflict and Dispute Resolution (CICSDR). CICSDR’s core mission is to encourage greater sensitivity to appropriate dispute resolution and skill development, preparing School of Law students for the multiple roles they will perform as lawyers in a global economy.

Center for Law, Technology and the Arts
The Center for Law, Technology, and the Arts was established as an internationally recognized forum for the interdisciplinary study of law, technology, and the arts. The Center focuses on teaching, research, and programs pertaining to intellectual property, technological innovation and technology transfer, the intersection of science, economics, philosophy, and the law, legal issues concerning biotechnology and computer technologies, and laws and cultural issues relating to the creative arts. Through the Center, the law school is able to offer students opportunities to address important, topical issues relating to law and technology and law and the arts through a variety of courses, lectures, events, and symposia.

Frederick K. Cox International Law Center
The International Law Center serves as the stimulus for enhancing programs in international, comparative, and transnational law at the law school. It supports visiting scholars and visiting faculty at the law school to enrich the curriculum and research capacity of the resident faculty. It also supports the development of international information resources. Through a series of sister law school relationships, it seeks to attract foreign students to the law school and provide opportunities for Case Western Reserve law students to study abroad; it also provides opportunities for faculty to study and teach abroad.

Institute for Global Security Law and Policy
The events and aftermath of 9/11 have made security and counter-terrorism fundamental, if not defining, concerns for the world community, nations, companies, the legal system, and individuals. The institute for Global Security Law and Policy was created in 2005 to provide a uniquely comprehensive hub for addressing the legal, financial, political, social, religious and cultural ramifications of counterterrorism, using an innovative multifaceted approach that integrates theory with practical application. The Institute develops and integrates the best learning from the academic and the real world and draws on numerous disciplines and experiences to provide innovative and world class programs, research, teaching, and service on the issues of security and counter-terrorism. The work of the Institute serves as an invaluable resource to governments, businesses, organizations, the legal profession, and the general community.

Law-Medicine Center
The Law-Medicine Center at Case Western Reserve University has been in operation for over 50 years. It began with a focus on forensic medicine, but has broadened to include the whole range of legal, social, economic, scientific, and ethical issues in which law and medicine are interrelated. Besides the regular course offerings, the center frequently presents lectures, symposia, and workshops, and sponsors major conferences. It publishes a student-edited journal, Health Matrix: Journal of Law-Medicine. Participants in the center’s activities include not only university personnel, but also professionals from such institutions as University Hospitals of Cleveland and the Cleveland Clinic.

Center for Social Justice
The School of Law has a proud but little-known history of providing a welcoming atmosphere that attracted African American students in the years before desegregation. Many of those graduates went on to distinguished careers. The purpose of the Center for Social Justice is to honor those graduates and the School of Law’s historic commitment to racial equality, as well as to promote social justice now and in the future for various groups that experience discriminatory treatment today. Its activities include holding conferences and speaker programs, hosting scholars from academia and practice, expanding curricular coverage, and providing financial support to students working in the area of social justice full-time after graduation or during summers while in law school.

Canada-United States Law Institute
The Canada-U.S. Law Institute, established in 1976, is jointly sponsored by the law schools of Case Western Reserve University and the University of Western Ontario. Its primary educational purpose is to give students of both schools a comparative perspective on their own country’s legal system. Each semester, up to six students from each school spend the term in residence at the other school. The school in which the student is a degree candidate gives full credit for the semester’s work. The two schools also exchange faculty, usually for periods of one or a few days, but occasionally to teach one or more courses for a full semester.

A second purpose of the institute is to provide a framework for the exploration of transnational and international legal issues affecting the relationship between Canada and the United States. In addition to the regularly scheduled courses on Canadian-U.S. topics, the institute sponsors workshops and conferences, including annual conferences in Cleveland, which, in recent years, have dealt with Canadian-U.S. economic ties.

The institute also sponsors a regular publication, the Canada-U.S. Law Journal; the annual Niagara Moot Court Competition, in which students from U.S. and Canadian law schools participate; and special research projects, often with funding support.

Dual Degree Programs

Dual Degree Programs

For students in dual degree programs, 12 hours of elective credits in the JD program are waived in consideration of completion of the dual degree. Students must be separately admitted to both degree programs in order to pursue a dual degree, the qualitative requirements of both degrees must be fully met, and the two degrees must be earned simultaneously. Students must begin coursework in the second degree program prior to completing one semester of law school work. Also, no coursework completed prior to official matriculation in the law school may be counted towards the law school degree.

JD/MBA (Master of Business Administration)

Students may complete the three-year JD program and the two-year MBA program in four academic years by completing 133 credit hours (including a 7-credit-hour overload which can be taken during the academic year or during the summer semester).

The School of Law allows dual degree students to use 12 credit hours from the MBA to fulfill both JD and MBA requirements. The Weatherhead School of Management allows dual degree students to use 12 credit hours from the School of Law to fulfill both MBA and JD requirements. Students must achieve a grade of C or better to receive double credit for the courses. This reduces the total number of hours required for the two degrees by 24 credit hours.

JD/MBA students may enroll only on a full-time basis, except during summer sessions. Dual degree students must receive both the JD and the MBA degrees simultaneously upon completion of degree requirements at both schools in order to receive the 24 hours of cross-credits described above.

Throughout the dual degree program, JD/MBA students continue to register in the first school they attended. After completion of both degree programs, two separate diplomas are awarded. Course work for both programs must be completed within six years of the date of initial enrollment in either program.

JD/MA or JD/MS (Master of Arts or Master of Science)

Enrolling in both the School of Law and the School of Graduate Studies, a student complete a Juris Doctor (JD) and a Master of Arts (MA) or Master of Science (MS) degree and earn the two degrees in seven semesters or six semesters plus two summers. Current options for this dual degree are:

- MA – Legal History
- MA – Bioethics
- MS – Biochemistry

JD/MSSA (Master of Science in Social Administration)

A dual degree program established by the Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences and the School of Law makes it possible for selected full-time students to pursue an integrated program of studies and receive the MSSA and JD degrees within four years rather than the normal five years that would be required to earn the two degrees separately. Applicants for the dual degree program must apply to and meet the admission requirements of both professional schools and are encouraged to apply for admission to both programs simultaneously.

Dual degree students must receive the MSSA and JD degrees simultaneously to be granted credit for specific courses taken in the other program.

JD/MD (Doctor or Medicine)

The School of Law and the School of Medicine offer a dual degree program that allows a student to complete both degrees in six years. A student who begins at the law school spends two years studying law, then four years studying medicine. Alternatively, a student may spend the first two years and the last two years at the medical school, and the two middle years at the law school.

JD/MPH (Master of Public Health)

The MPH degree will generally add a year of additional course work to the JD degree, creating a four-year program. Law students enrolled in the dual JD/MPH degree program may earn up to 12 credits toward the JD in graduate level MPH courses. The law school offers several health law courses that meet the MPH elective requirements.
Juris Doctor (JD)

Juris Doctor

The School of Law offers the Juris Doctor (JD) degree as well as several dual-degree programs. The JD degree requires successful completion of 88 credit hours, of which 38 hours are in required courses and 50 hours are elective courses - at least 2 of the elective credits must be used for the writing of a substantial research paper. The first year program for the JD degree consists mainly of the required basic courses. In addition, in the spring semester students select a 2-credit elective “perspectives” course; the menu of first-year perspectives courses varies from year to year.

Curricular Concentrations

Seven curricular concentrations are offered for the Juris Doctor. These optional concentrations allow students to provide a concentrated focus for some of their elective coursework. The current available curricular concentrations are:

- Business Organizations
- Criminal Law
- Litigation / Alternate Dispute Resolution
- Health Law
- International Law
- Law, Technology, and the Arts
- Public Law – Public and Regulatory Institutions track or Individual Rights and Social Reform track
- National Security Law

Graduate School Option

Students in the School of Law who are not enrolled in a dual-degree program may take up to nine hours of approved courses in the other graduate and professional schools of Case Western Reserve University and have such courses counted for credit toward the JD degree.

JD Curricular Concentrations

JD students have an option to earn a curricular concentration by focusing their course selections within a particular area of legal study. Requirements for each particular concentration are listed below. In order to receive the concentration, students must earn at least 15-18 credits (varies by the specific concentration) in courses within the concentration, and earn an overall grade point average of 3.000 or higher amongst all courses defined by that concentration. Each concentration has a number of prescribed required courses, along with a menu of courses that can counted as elective hours. Each concentration also has a writing requirement: a substantial research paper on a topic applicable to the concentration must be completed with a grade of B+ or higher; contact the concentration advisor for more details. Specific courses applicable to each concentration are subject to change by faculty review. Please obtain the most current concentration curriculum sheet from the Law School Academic Services Office. Each concentration has an assigned faculty leader who can assist students with course selection and curriculum planning.

Elective courses as approved by program director 13

Total Units 24

Each student’s courses will be determined by the program director in consultation with the student and will be based on the student’s prior legal education and interests. After completion of the degree requirements, students may elect to spend a summer internship with a law firm or corporate legal department in the United States. Further information and admission materials may be requested from the Foreign Graduate Studies Program office. (http://www.case.edu/law/llm)

International Criminal Law

The Master of Laws (LLM) program in International Criminal Law is a one-year advanced study program to students who hold the JD degree from a U.S. law school, or equivalent training from a school outside of the USA. It provides students with an in-depth knowledge of international criminal law and procedure, international humanitarian law, and national security law, and will equip them to practice international criminal law before international tribunals or national courts. Students will plan their course of study by working closely with the Program Director. Selected students will also have the opportunity to participate in one of our International Criminal Tribunal Externships during one of their semesters in the program.

School of Law Courses

Courses

LAWS 1100. Introduction to Lawyering. 1 Unit.

This course is the first component of the CaseArc Integrated Lawyering Skills Program. It is an introduction and orientation to the study of law and lawyering skills. The course introduces students to issues of professionalism, interviewing skills, the trial and appellate processes as well as legal analysis, writing and argumentation. It also introduces students to skills for preparation and participation in the law school classroom and to comparative analysis of different legal systems. The course is required for all entering students and is scheduled each day of the week prior to the beginning of regular classes in the fall semester.

LAWS 1101. Contracts. 4 Units.

The formation of a contract; problems of offer and acceptance; consideration; the question of contract breach; damages and remedies for a breach. Required.

LAWS 1102. Criminal Law. 4 Units.

A basic course in substantive criminal law, dealing with the standards to be used in defining and punishing criminal behavior. The course includes discussion of crimes and criminality; culpable mental states; causation; insanity; attempt and complicity; homicide; and rape. Required.
LAWS 1103. Torts. 4 Units.
This course covers compensation of an injured party for harm resulting from intentional or unintentional acts and omissions of others. Consideration is given to the rules, rationale, and policy underlying tort liability. The course includes analysis of assault and battery, false imprisonment, negligence, standard of care, duty, risk, causation, liabilities and rights of landowners and land users, liability relating to dangerous activities and defective products, liabilities arising from special relationships or specially recognized legal interests, and defenses. Required.

LAWS 1201. Civil Procedure. 4 Units.
A broad survey of the procedural development of a lawsuit is undertaken, tracing the various steps from pleading and discovery to trials and judgments. Modern procedural issues involved in jurisdiction of the courts, venue, choice of law, and former adjudications are discussed. Throughout the course principal attention is given to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Required.

LAWS 1202. Constitutional Law I. 4 Units.
The constitutional system of the United States; judicial function in constitutional cases; the division of powers between the nation and the states and within the national government; the powers of the president; national and state citizenship; and constitutional limitations on the powers of the states and nation for the protection of individual liberties. Required.

LAWS 1203. Property. 4 Units.
The nature of property interests; estates in land and future interests; concurrent ownership; landlord-tenant; transfer of property interests; easements, covenants, and equitable servitudes; nuisance; and zoning. Required.

LAWS 1801. Core 1: Research, Writing, and Skills. 0 Units.
This course is the first of a sequence of required courses in the CaseArc Program which trains students in the fundamental skills of practicing law. Students are introduced to the fundamentals of legal analysis and rhetoric beginning with objective written legal analysis. In addition, they receive instruction in manual and, to a limited extent, computerized legal research. Finally, students begin to develop the basic skills of interviewing, fact gathering and client counseling. The course is taught by a combination of classroom instruction, small group discussions and through performance and critique of simulation exercises. The goal is to integrate the learning and application of legal theory, doctrine and practice in an authentic manner. Students are assigned to an instructional team consisting of a doctrinal professor, a research, analysis and writing professor, a clinical professor, a skills professor and a librarian. The team coordinates the assignments and exercises so that students are provided a learning experience that combines lecture, discussion, and hands-on experience. Students must take this course in the fall semester of their first year.

LAWS 1802. Core 2: Research, Writing, and Skills. 4 Units.
This course is the second of the sequence of required courses in the CaseArc Program which trains students in the fundamental skills of practicing law. Students build on their learning in CORE 1 by confronting more complex and challenging problems. The format of the course and teaching methods are similar to CORE 1, but the writing component of the course shifts from the objective mode to the persuasive, and the research component incorporates electronic research in depth. In addition, the students learn more complex fact gathering, document analysis, and counseling. Finally, students are introduced to negotiation theory and technique and to the principles of effective oral presentation in formal and informal settings. Students must take this course in the spring semester of their first year. Recommended preparation: LAWS 801.

LAWS 2001. Professional Responsibility. 3 Units.
This course deals with questions underlying the responsibilities of the lawyer, as a professional, to self, society, client, and the profession. Premises concerning the lawyer’s role or roles within the context of the adversary system are examined in some detail, as is the idea of professionalism. The Model Code of Professional Responsibility and the Model Rules of Professional Conduct are analyzed as generalized statements of the aspirations and obligations of lawyers, and as applied to concrete problems. Required.

LAWS 2803. Core 3: Transaction, Writing, and Skills. 2 Units.
This is the third of the required sequence of four courses in which students are introduced to the fundamental skills of practicing law. Students build on their learning in CORE 1 and CORE 2 by applying the principles of legal research, analysis, writing, interviewing, counseling and negotiation in the transactional setting. Students also learn about the challenges of applying these lawyering skills in the representation of groups and entities. The format of the course and teaching methods are similar to CORE 1 and CORE 2. Students must take this course sometime during the second year of law school, in either the fall or spring semester.

LAWS 2804. Core 4: Strategic Representation of Clients. 2 Units.
This is the fourth of the required courses in the CaseArc program in which students are introduced to the fundamental skills of practicing law. Students perform the major steps in the process of representing one client from initial interview through a negotiated resolution. As in actual law practice, students will mix independent individual work with collaboration with other student lawyers. Students independently interview and counsel their clients, research, negotiate and communicate with the client and opposing counsel. Students collaborate with their colleagues to share investigation facts, explore legal issues, assess the client’s situation, decide how best to present the client’s position, form legal strategies, and prepare for negotiation. Students perform and receive extensive individual feedback on interviews, client counseling and negotiation, and produce a variety of associated writing assignments. Each class section is organized around a single legal case involving two parties, in one of three subject areas: civil litigation, transactional practice, and criminal practice. Prereq: LAWS 2803.

LAWS 4101. International Law. 2 Units.
An introduction to basic comparative, transnational, and international law disciplines. Using areas of substantive and procedural law familiar to first-year students, the course examines issues arising from cross-national activity. Students are exposed to choice of law, comparative law, international law, and international institutions.

LAWS 4200. Bioethics and Law. 2 Units.
This course will explore how the legal and policy systems reconcile competing values and interests in controversies surrounding the practice of medicine. Case law, legislation, administrative law, and institutional policies will be examined, as well as selected commentary from the legal, medical, and philosophical perspectives. Substantive topics will include end-of-life issues, informed consent, use of new reproductive technologies, and other timely subjects in bioethics.

LAWS 4201. Health Law. 3 Units.
The course examines the nature and structure of the health care system; the relationship between patient, provider, and payer; private legal controls on health care delivery such as malpractice and informed consent law; and public controls in the form of government regulatory and payment programs. Offered as HSMC 427 and LAWS 227.
LAWS 4300. Intellectual Property Survey. 2 Units.
This course is designed to provide students with an overview of several areas of law traditionally associated with intellectual property or IP, including copyright law, which pertains to the protection of literary, musical, and artistic creations and has issues replete with First Amendment implications; patent law and trade secret law, which focus on the protection of technological works ranging from chemical formulae, to software, to biotechnology; and trademark law, which relates to the goodwill associated with corporate identity and product recognition.
We will also devote time to the study of the philosophy and economics of intellectual property keeping in mind, throughout the course, the need to strike an optimal balance between incentives to create and commercialize intellectual creations on the one hand and public access to these creations on the other hand.

LAWS 4301. Copyright Law. 3 Units.
Copyright law is the in-depth study of the legal doctrine and policy relating to the protection of one’s artistic, literary, musical, and computer-related expression. We will focus primarily on the 1976 Copyright Act and amendments thereto, such as the Digital Millennium Copyright Act of 1998.

LAWS 4302. Patent Law. 2 - 3 Units.
Basic concepts of patent law as property considered primarily in its substantive aspects, including the relationship to other forms of protection and intellectual property, infringement, and statutory requirements for patents.

LAWS 4303. Trademark Law. 3 Units.
Trademark Law is the study of how commercial entities use words and designs to identify the source their products and services in the minds of consumers and competitors. This course focuses on domestic and international trademark acquisition, retention, transfer, registration, and infringement. In addition to the common law of trademarks and unfair competition, much of this course will be devoted to studying the statutory scheme of federal trademark law.

LAWS 4401. Business Associations. 5 Units.
This course is an introduction to the law of business associations, including general and limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and corporations. The functions and relationships of enterprise participants, primarily promoters, equity owners, creditors, and managers are investigated. The course covers pre-organizational problems and then canvases the roles of ownership and management, with emphasis on the special duties (fiduciary and other) imposed on certain participants in publicly and closely-held entities. The regulation of securities fraud, proxy voting and solicitations, and the issuance of securities under the federal securities laws is explored. Fundamental concepts of business financing, including valuation of the concern and claim structure, are investigated. Organic changes, including dissolutions, mergers, and tender offers, are discussed.

LAWS 4402. Nonprofit Organizations. 3 Units.
Explores the rationales for the existence of the nonprofit sector and the allocation of certain functions to it. The focus is on the legal framework for the structure and operation of nonprofit organizations under state nonprofit corporation statutes and the policy and practice of preferred tax treatment for selected organizations and gifts to them under the Internal Revenue Code.

LAWS 4403. Business Associations. 5 Units.
This course is an introduction to the law of business associations, including general and limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and corporations. The functions and relationships of enterprise participants, primarily promoters, equity owners, creditors, and managers are investigated. The course covers pre-organizational problems and then canvases the roles of ownership and management, with emphasis on the special duties (fiduciary and other) imposed on certain participants in publicly and closely-held entities. The regulation of securities fraud, proxy voting and solicitations, and the issuance of securities under the federal securities laws is explored. Fundamental concepts of business financing, including valuation of the concern and claim structure, are investigated. Organic changes, including dissolutions, mergers, and tender offers, are discussed.

LAWS 4404. Sales. 3 Units.
One of the basic courses in commercial law. It serves equally as an introduction to the general organization, structure, and appropriate application of the Uniform Commercial Code. Primarily we study the law of Sale of Goods under Article 2 of the U.C.C. Necessarily this includes a study of products liability law, which is explored under both sales warranty and strict tort liability theories. The interrelationship between these competing theories of products liability law are also investigated. Other specific topics studied are the legal rules applicable to 1) the formation of sale contract, including the battle of the forms, statute of frauds, and parol evidence rule, 2) performance of and excuse of performance from the sales contract, 3) title warranties and title transfers, and 4) remedies for breach of the sales contract. Students may not take both LAWS 381 and LAWS 266 (Sales and Secured Financing).

LAWS 4405. Federal Income Tax. 4 Units.
An introductory course in federal income taxation of the individual taxpayer, including a consideration of the nature of income, specific statutory exclusions, business and nonbusiness deductions, the treatment of capital gains and losses, and elementary tax accounting.

LAWS 4701. Dispute Resolution. 2 Units.
This course will examine the characteristic methods by which American courts resolve disputes, and will then compare those methods with those used by alternative institutions of dispute resolution such as administrative agencies, arbitration, and mediation negotiation. In resolving disputed issues of law, American courts are constrained by doctrines of precedent, stare decisis, and the principles of statutory interpretation, all of which will be treated in some depth in the course. Disputed issues of fact in American courts are commonly decided by juries consisting of ordinary citizens, and the course will explore a number of features of the jury as it impacts litigation in courts. The portion of the course devoted to alternative dispute resolution will involve some simulations and role-playing exercises. There will be a single examination at the end of the term which will be the primary basis for grading.

LAWS 4702. Courts, Public Policy, and Social Change. 2 Units.
Examines the social impact of law and use of social research in the legal process, assesses efforts to use law to effect social reform, and empirical studies of legal processes and institutions. Recommended preparation: Graduate standing or consent of department. Offered as LAWS 285 and POSC 429.

LAWS 4703. Executive Compensation: An Introduction to Business Law. 2 Units.
This course introduces students to the broad area known as business law. Among the areas introduced will be the laws of business organizations (including differences in management and corporate governance among different types of entities), securities regulation (both disclosure and registration requirements), drafting of complex contracts, taxation (of entities and individuals), and professional responsibility, and the business lawyer’s interface with other lawyers (specialists in intellectual property, employment, or litigation) and non-lawyers such as board members, accountants and business consultants.
LAWS 4704. Introduction to Legal Theory. 2 Units.
This course provides reflection on the most fundamental questions about the nature of law. The course is overly philosophical, thus, the reading materials and discussion will include significant cases that both add to your knowledge of substantive legal doctrine and illustrate the theoretical ideas discussed. We will discuss laws and judicial decisions on topics ranging from jury nullification to punitive damages, from fugitive slave laws to sovereign immunity. But most importantly, we will discuss a variety of fundamental ideas that will be of real importance to you in the rest of your legal education and career. Time permitting, we will explore the distinctions between rules and standards, between rights and privileges, between property rules and liability rules, and between distributive and corrective justice. We will give considerable attention to the question of how courts should go about “Interpreting” laws and to the considerations that are involved in advising a client who might be contemplating “gaming” the law.

LAWS 4806. Administrative Law. 3 Units.
This course examines the legal and institutional framework within which agencies administer regulatory statutes, with emphasis on procedural and constitutional issues. Major themes include limiting arbitrary action, controlling agency discretion, and promoting governmental accountability. Examples and problems are drawn from a wide range of substantive areas, including business, communications, consumer protection, education, environmental, health and safety, intellectual property, labor and employment law, and real estate law.

LAWS 4807. Criminal Procedure I. 3 Units.
The investigatory stage of the criminal process. Constitutional limitations on searches and seizures, interrogation practices, and pretrial identification procedures are examined. In addition, the exclusionary rule, the principal method for enforcing Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Amendment rights, is considered.

LAWS 4808. Evidence. 4 Units.
A comprehensive course in the law of evidence as applied in civil and criminal cases. Subjects include relevance, hearsay, judicial notice, privileges, examination of witnesses, expert and lay opinion testimony, and real, demonstrative, and scientific evidence. This course deals with both the practical applications and theoretical underpinnings of the Federal Rules of Evidence and common law precedents. Students may not take both LAWS 207 and LAWS 212.

LAWS 4809. Wills, Trusts, and Future Interests. 4 Units.
A survey of the law of intestate and testate succession, will substitutes, private and charitable trusts, fiduciary administration, and future interests (including the Rule Against Perpetuities).

LAWS 4810. Entering the Profession. 2 Units.
This course provides an introduction to the testing formats and required skills common to bar exams in United States jurisdictions, including the Multistate Bar Exam (MBE, multiple-choice format); the Multistate Performance Test (MPT, task-oriented essay); and essay questions in various substantive areas (which generally incorporate some state-specific content). Substantive content will be presented to provide raw material for practice testing. Students will earn the course credit by attending at least 80% of class sessions and completing 100% of written assignments with at least 65% success rate. Rewrites and retests will be allowed on request. The course does not comprise complete preparation for any bar exam. Rather, it provides familiarity, study strategies, and test-taking instruction along with limited substantive content.

LAWS 4901. Foreign Graduate Seminar. 1 Unit.
This seminar is the required introductory course for foreign students enrolled in the Graduate Program in U.S. Legal Studies. It begins with a series of lectures introducing students to American legal education; American government, courts, and culture; various common law subjects; and professional responsibility. Throughout the year seminar sessions are held with legal practitioners from law firms and corporations in the Cleveland area who are involved in an international practice. Limited to the foreign LL.M. students.

LAWS 4902. U.S. Legal Writing for Foreign Law Graduates. 1 - 2 Unit.
This course is designed to teach English compositional skills and grammar for legal studies. With an English-as-a-second-language focus, this course will seek to teach students the various steps of the writing process, English grammar, and certain aspects of legal composition. The main goal of this course is to enable students to write clearly and correctly within U.S. legal studies and the U.S. legal work place. The course will meet twice a week for one hour. Students will be required to take this course based on a written exam administered at the beginning of the semester. Students must receive a grade of at least C to pass out of the course.

LAWS 4903. U.S. Contract Law. 3 Units.
The subject matter and coverage of this course is approximately the same as the subject matter and coverage of first-year Contracts (LAWS 123) as abbreviated and modified to reflect that it (a) is limited to foreign students who are candidates for the LL.M. in U.S. Legal Studies and (b) consists of 3 (not 5) credit hours.

LAWS 4904. Doing Business in the United States. 3 Units.
The course is designed to introduce foreign students to many areas of U.S. domestic law through consideration of a transnational business transaction. Examples of areas of law covered: restrictions on foreign investment, regulatory agencies, banking and finance, importing and exporting, business entities, litigation and alternative dispute resolution, labor relations, immigration law, taxation. Limited to candidates for the LL.M. in the U.S. Legal Studies.

LAWS 4905. Business Associations for LL.M. Students. 3 Units.
This course is an introduction to the law of business associations including general and limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and corporations tailored to their specific needs.

LAWS 4906. Evidence. 3 Units.
This is a comprehensive course in the law of evidence as applied in civil and criminal cases. Subjects include relevance, direct and cross-examination, impeachment, character, expert and lay opinion testimony, and hearsay. A problem-oriented approach is used to highlight both the practical applications and theoretical underpinnings of rules of evidence. Students may not take both LAWS 207 and LAWS 212.

LAWS 5110. Contemporary Issues in International and Comparative Law. 1 Unit.
The objectives of the course will revolve around initiating students to the basic concepts and principles of comparative law reasoning and helping students make sense of the increasing dialogue between jurisdictions practicing constitutionalism in a global context with a focus on human rights issues. The coverage of the proposed course will select from the following themes depending on student interest and availability of materials: (a) Freedom of religion, secularism and culture; (b) Freedom of expression and hate propaganda; (c) Freedom of expression and sexual representation; (d) Equality and same sex unions; (e) Assisted suicide; (f) Death penalty; (g) Implementation of human rights in federal or quasi-federal politics; (h) Socio-economic rights; and/or (i) Cultural rights.
LAWS 5111. Admiralty Law. 2 Units.
The general principles of admiralty law including jurisdiction, practice, maritime liens, collisions, salvage, limitation of liability, and the rights of injured maritime workers.

LAWS 5112. Canada-United States Law Institute Seminar. 2 Units.
Canadian-US Legal Relations provides students with a broad examination of the issues confronting the Canada-US relationship. Topics discussed include comparative constitutional law, North American trade & investment law, immigration, Canada-US border security, and environmental issues -- including the Great Lakes. The course includes lectures by practitioners and government officials. Students are required to author a paper that may be published in Canada-US Law Institute material and journals.

LAWS 5113. National Security Law 2: Counterterrorism. 3 Units.
This course will take an in-depth look at counter-terrorism in the United States, Israel, and other countries. The course will examine the competing conceptions and definitions of terrorism at the national and international level and the institutions and processes designed to execute the "war on terrorism." This will include study of the balance between security and liberty policies in the U.S. Patriot Act, the use of military tribunals or civil courts, the use of assassination or targeted killings, and the emerging law on enemy combatants and their detention, and the arguable need for new self-defense doctrines at the global level.

LAWS 5114. European Union Law. 2 - 3 Units.
After a brief introduction to the institutions and organs of the European Community, the legal aspects of the internal operations of the Community will be discussed. Special emphasis will be placed on the external impact of Community law, for example, its trading rules, company law, and business competition law, as well as its rules governing the free movement of goods, services, capital, and persons. The concept of European citizenship will also be dealt with.

LAWS 5115. International Arbitration. 2 Units.
An advanced course covering the current status of arbitration as a dispute settlement mechanism in international affairs. This course will cover the use of arbitration as a means of resolving international disputes: a) between private parties; b) between private and governmental parties; and c) between governments. It will cover possible forums and rules of arbitral dispute resolution and the problems of the enforcement of foreign arbitral awards. Special aspects of dispute resolution in certain geographical and subject areas will be covered as will be the problem of sovereign immunity. Disputes arising from multinational business transactions will be focused on as will be maritime, environmental, and border disputes.

LAWS 5116. International Human Rights. 3 Units.
This course will cover a variety of issues in the area of international human rights. Issues covered will include the law of treaties and treaty interpretation; international organizations' and non-governmental organizations' roles in protecting human rights; the rights of women and minorities; critiques of the idea of "universal" human rights; and the Alien Tort Claims Act. In addition to covering the procedure and substance of the international system for protection of human rights, we will also discuss human rights under various domestic legal systems from a comparative perspective. Grade is based on the final exam, class participation and possibly a group project.

LAWS 5117. International Organizations. 3 Units.
Deals with legal issues surrounding some common characteristics of intergovernmental organizations having wide membership, with an emphasis on the United Nations systems. Many of the issues are constitutional or procedural; that is, they have to do with the powers of, and restrictions upon, the organizations or their members as set forth in the constituent instruments of the organizations or as developed in practice. Issues such as eligibility for membership and termination thereof, rights and obligations of members, dispute resolution, and legislative procedures will be addressed comparatively. The growth of international law through intergovernmental organizations is also addressed.

LAWS 5118. War Crimes Research Lab. 3 Units.
Students in this unique course undertake legal research projects for various international criminal tribunals (including the International Criminal Court and the tribunals in Cambodia and Sierra Leone, among others). They prepare memoranda on selected issues related to current tribunal cases. The course sessions explore the development of international criminal law and the establishment of the tribunals, as well as their jurisprudence and their Rules of Procedure and Evidence. Grades are based on the quality of student papers and in-class presentations. Completed research projects along with their accompanying source notebooks become part of the tribunal libraries.

LAWS 5119. Intervention Law: Iraq and Vietnam. 3 Units.
Using the examples of American intervention in Vietnam and Iraq, this course examines some of the international and domestic legal issues raised by war and military intervention. Among the topics covered will be the legal justifications for intervention and the arguments for the illegality of the two wars; constitutional limits on executive war making powers; the justiciability of issues of war and peace under U.S. law; the draft, the volunteer army, and conscientious objection; GI rights and GI dissent; the law of war and international humanitarian law and the recurring problems of massacre, murder, and torture.

LAWS 5120. International Business Transactions. 3 Units.
This course examines various types of international business activities from a transactional perspective. It focuses on international sales, international payments, and international licensing transactions and examines the different legal systems (state, federal, international) that may impact on these transactions. It also considers commercial aspects of the interpretation of cross-border contracts, dispute resolution concerning cross-border contracts, and the role of lawyers. Some basic issues relating to private international law/conflicts of law are also addressed. There is also some introductory coverage of international electronic commerce transactions and related legal issues.
LAWS 5121. International Criminal Law and Procedure. 3 Units.
This course surveys selected issues and current problems involving the criminal aspects of international law and the international aspects of criminal law. The course begins with an introduction to the origins and purposes of international criminal law. We will then explore the contours of the duty to prosecute those who commit international crimes. Next, we will focus on application of domestic and international law to the question of jurisdiction over international criminal activities. This is followed by three units examining substantive international criminal law as contained in multilateral treaties concerning terrorism, war crimes and crimes against humanity. Next, we will explore the procedural aspects of international cooperation in criminal matters, with particular attention to extradition and problems associated with obtaining evidence from abroad. We will also analyze the reach of U.S. constitutional protections to U.S. investigative and law enforcement activities overseas. Finally, we will study the new Yugoslavia and Rwanda War Crimes Tribunals and the permanent International Criminal Court. The class will be seminar format, with short writing assignments, weekly simulations, and role-play exercises designed to bring the materials to life. There will be no final exam.

LAWS 5122. International Litigation Research Seminar. 2 Units.
This seminar focuses on the litigation of transnational disputes in domestic courts. Topics include jurisdiction, international service of process procedures for obtaining evidence internationally, and the international enforcement of judgments. Students will complete a substantial research paper and will present the results of their research to the class.

LAWS 5123. International Trade Law and Policy. 3 Units.
The public international and United States law regulating international trade. (The private law of international trade and investment is dealt with in International Business Transactions, LAWS 354.) It includes the economic theory of international trade (although no exposure to a course in economics in secondary or undergraduate education is necessary) as well as a legal examination of issues regulating global and regional (e.g., the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Agreement, EEC) international trade. Primary emphasis is on the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the World Trade Organization (WTO) as well as such United States legislation implementing the GATT as antidumping and countervailing duties legislation and escape clause relief. The roles of trade and aid are also explored, as well as U.S. legislation affecting the transfer of resources to less developed countries.

LAWS 5124. Islamic Law. 2 Units.
This course will cover major aspects of the Islamic Law. It will provide students with a better understanding of Islam and its adherents. Many topics related to Islam and its basic beliefs, including some contemporary issues, will be covered in this course.

LAWS 5125. Jewish Law. 2 Units.

LAWS 5126. NAFTA and Bilateral Trading Agreements. 1 Unit.
Since the World Trade Organization Doha Negotiations have stalled, countries increasingly look to bilateral and regional trading arrangements as a viable alternative to multilateral negotiations. This course is a four day, one credit course examining the legal and policy considerations with respect to bilateral and regional trading arrangements, using the Canada-U.S. FTA, NAFTA, U.S.-Chile FTA, Canada-Chile FTA, and various United States, Australian and Asian bilateral trading arrangements. The faculty will cover both the legal aspects considered in the negotiations and also the practical considerations of negotiators.

LAWS 5131. Global Corporate Governance Lab. 3 Units.
This Lab will involve students in an integrated experience of academic research and public service. Students will work on research projects on corporate governance law and policy for publicly owned companies in emerging markets such as India, Russia, Turkey, and South Africa. The course will engage students in projects for a variety of organizations involved in improving corporate governance in emerging markets, including the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), the International Fiscal Corporation, the Institute of International Finance (II), and locally based governmental and non-governmental organizations. Students will study and research key aspects of corporate governance, including minority shareholder protection, the structure and responsibility of the board of directors, accounting and auditing requirements, transparency of shareholder ownership and control, and enforcement as they apply to emerging markets. Special attention will be paid to the importance of fashioning rules appropriate for the economic, social, and legal environment of each jurisdiction.

LAWS 5132. Homeland Security/USCG Lab. 3 Units.
The DHS/USCG Lab will provide students with the opportunity to conduct research and prepare legal memoranda addressing issues submitted by the US Department of Homeland Security and the United States Coast Guard. Students will meet for lecture sessions that provide a background into the issues presented, including border security, Great Lakes laws, immigration, administrative law, and the environment. The student’s work product will be submitted to, and utilized by, DHS/USCG.

LAWS 5133. Terrorism Prosecution Lab. 3 Units.
This lab will involve students in an integrated experience of academic research and public service. Students will work on research projects in counter-terrorism law in the United States, Israel and other countries. The course will engage students in projects for a variety of organizations that are trying to develop expertise in counter-terrorism law, including U.S. attorney offices, thinktanks, defense attorneys, international governmental and non-governmental organizations. Students will study and research various aspects of counter-terrorism in the U.S., foreign countries, and at the international level, including the balance between security and liberty policies in the U.S. Patriot Act, the use of military tribunals or civil courts, the use of assassination or targeted killings, and the emerging law on enemy combatants and their detention, and the arguable need for new self-defense doctrines at the global level. Prereq or Coreq: LAWS 5113.

LAWS 5136. International Humanitarian Law. 1 Unit.
This course is designed to prepare the student members of the Jean Pictet Competition team, but is open to all students with an interest in international humanitarian law. The course will be taught in two all-day Friday-Saturday sessions in January and February by international humanitarian law expert Gregory Noone, who is currently a fellow at the U.S. Institute of Peace and was previously Head of the Foreign Military Rights Affairs Branch of the Office of the Judge Advocate General at the Pentagon. Using case studies as well as simulations and role-playing exercises, the course will address the field of international humanitarian law as a whole, including the law of armed conflict, international criminal law, international human rights law, and the role of international organizations such as the ICRC and U.N. The objective of the course is to convey the reality of international law. Like humanitarian law itself, the course will not deal solely with legal disputes or judicial matters, but with practice and real life situations. The course grade will be based on a paper that will not satisfy the Writing Requirement.
LAWS 5137. Chinese Law. 3 Units.
This seminar will introduce students to the functions, purposes, and ongoing institutionalization of the law in the People’s Republic of China. After briefly examining China’s modern and traditional history, we examine the legal system’s role in the political, social and economic development of China. Over the semester, we will investigate several areas of law—constitutional law, criminal law, economic law, property and intellectual property—and then highlight topics of particular concern to the international community, such as human rights, the WTO and China’s commitment to international law. The goal is for students to understand both internal legal developments within China, the increasingly important role China plays on the global stage, and (ideally) to reflect upon the American legal system.

LAWS 5138. Chinese Business Law. 3 Units.
This course will introduce students to Chinese business law systems in the context of globalization and from the perspective of comparative law. We will examine the various legal aspects of “doing business in China” through discussing the Chinese corporate law, contract law, foreign direct investment law, and other relevant systems. Course objectives are for students to gain understanding of both the legal theories and practices in the field of Chinese business law, be able to identify and analyze the issues arising from the US businesses invested in China and/or the Chinese-US joint ventures, and be able to provide solutions to solve these issues.

LAWS 5161. Legal History of European Union Seminar. 3 Units.
The seminar introduces students to the history, development, and present structure of the legal system of the European Union from the ECSC in 1951, through the Treaty of Rome in 1957, to the Treaty of Amsterdam in 1997. The seminar will examine the “constitutional” structures and institutions of the European Union, including the emergence of a binding jurisprudence from the European Court of Justice; will look at general interpretive principles emanating from the European civil law tradition, such as the doctrines of subsidiarity and proportionality; will explore the public law of the European Union, the “four freedoms,” human rights, and equal treatment of women and men; and will briefly treat private law rights emergent not only from treaty and parliamentary enactment but from Union jurisprudence. The seminar will concentrates on the historical and economic context, but legal doctrine and practice will also be considered.

LAWS 5202. Bioethics and Law. 3 Units.
Students will be introduced to the basic principles of bioethics and health care law, and to the ways in which these principles apply to specific problems arising in clinical and policy settings. Readings and class discussion will first examine the philosophical framework and the basic moral theories relevant to modern bioethics. After the survey, bioethical issues in the following broad topics may be covered: defining life, including human reproduction, surrogacy and fetal-maternal conflict; euthanasia and the prolonging of life including the right-to-die, medical futility, and advance directives; termination of treatment for children; genetic screening; hospital ethics committees; access to care and the politics of health care in the 90s; and ethics in the business of medicine. Readings will consist of legal cases and documents, statutes, regulations and articles from the academic and the lay press. Grade is primarily based on an exam. Both an oral class presentation and a short paper are optional to supplement the grade, but not to replace the exam. Attendance and class participation are also considered for grading purposes.

LAWS 5203. Food and Drug Law. 2 Units.
This course examines the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. It will entail a detailed look at the law, policy statements, and literature related to approving new drugs and devices. The course covers such topics as human subjects research; product labeling and testing; OTC vs. prescription status; compassionate use exceptions; control of biotechnology techniques; differences between food, drugs and devices; and FDA enforcement. We will also explore how law and the legal system anticipate and also respond to changes in technology in ways that may enhance or inhibit the development of new technologies and new applications of old technologies. Attendance at classes is mandatory. Grade is based on final exam.

LAWS 5204. Genetics and Law. 3 Units.
The current federal Human Genome Project is attempting to understand the health and behavioral implications of the 50,000 to 100,000 genes in the human body. Genetic tests are being offered to let people know if they are at risk of having a child with a genetic defect or if they will later in life suffer from cancer or other disease. Genetic predispositions are also being investigated for certain behaviors such as gay sexual preference, intelligence, and anti-social behavior. This course will cover the tort law, family law, constitutional law, criminal law, employment law, and insurance implications of developments in genetics.

LAWS 5205. Public Health Law. 2 Units.
This course surveys a range of issues in public health law including contagious diseases, health surveillance and privacy, tobacco, controlled substances, obesity, firearms, emergency preparedness and bioterrorism. It is designed to introduce students studying law or public health to the basic constitutional principles involved in public health law; the scope of local, state and federal authority to regulate; and the variety of ethical issues that arise.

LAWS 5210. Biotechnology Law and Practice. 2 Units.
Through the lenses of being counsel to a fictional start-up biotechnology company, the class will discuss, analyze and address the typical legal issues that arise from the US businesses invested in China and/or the Chinese-US joint ventures, and be able to provide solutions to solve these issues.

LAWS 5211. Biotechnology Law and Policy. 2 Units.
This course is designed to expose the law student and graduate student in science or business to the legal, business, and policy issues relevant to the biotechnology industry. We will cover issues related to patents, corporate organization and financing (particularly venture capital as it relates to the Start-Up Biotech Company), licensing and other transactions, regulatory issues relevant to the Food and Drug Administration, university technology transfer, and academic conflicts of interest. Prereq: LAWS 4401 and LAWS 4302.

LAWS 5212. Civil Law and Psychiatry. 2 Units.
The interaction between law and psychiatry in the rights of persons with mental disabilities in the community and in treatment settings. Topics include involuntary commitment, suicide, guardianship, psychiatric malpractice, psychic damages, special education, confidentiality and child abuse and custody. Students will test the analysis of legal issues against actual experience (videotaped interviews, visit to a state mental hospital). The course is jointly taught by a psychiatrist and an attorney specializing in mental health law.
LAWS 5213. Criminal Law and Psychiatry. 2 Units.
The interaction between criminal law and psychiatry: psychiatric diagnosis and treatment, competence to stand trial, the insanity defense, malingering, mental illness, infanticide, stalking, violence, sexual predator laws, and direct and cross-examination of mental health experts. Videotaped examples serve as a basis for discussion. A visit to the Justice Center Court Psychiatric Clinic is included. The course is taught jointly by a psychiatrist and an attorney specializing in mental health law.

LAWS 5214. Current Topics in Health Law. 2 Units.
The course will cover 13 different current topics that are likely to confront in the practice of health care law. Each topic will be presented by a leading practitioner in the field, who will provide appropriate reading materials. The presentations will be followed by student discussion led by a visiting faculty member. The grade will be based on class participation and an examination.

LAWS 5215. Health Care and Human Rights. 3 Units.
This course combines two areas of law of increasing importance and public attention. In light of emerging medical, research, and genetic technology, courts, legislatures, administrative agencies and ordinary citizens around the world often face issues of health law. At the same time, in a world that is becoming both globalized and plagued by repeated instances of ethnic cleansing and other catastrophic abuses, issues of human rights are at the forefront of public debate. The intersection of health care and human rights, therefore, constitutes a worthy and fascinating area of study. Topics to be covered will be selected from among the following: 1) an overview of relevant human rights doctrines; 2) the concept of public health; 3) the status of the right to health care in different countries; 4) biomedical research involving human subjects; 5) genetic technologies; 6) disability rights; 7) women’s reproductive and health issues; 8) environmental abuses and human rights; 9) infectious disease, bioterrorism, and human rights; and 10) war crimes and other human rights abuses, as they impact public health.

LAWS 5216. Health Care and the Constitution. 3 Units.
Is there a constitutional right to resist all unwanted medical interventions? Is there a constitutional right to access medical interventions at one's own expense? What, if any, are the constitutional limits on the government's ability to regulate health care and the practice of medicine? This seminar will focus on the constitutional aspects of health care law. Topics will vary year to year but may include abortion, the "right to die," compulsory vaccination, medical marijuana, access to unapproved drugs, and minors' rights to make medical treatment decisions.

LAWS 5217. Health Care Professions. 2 Units.
Class is intended for (and limited to) students interested in health law who do not have training or experience in a health care profession. Instructors and guest speakers will cover the history of medicine, the scientific method, clinical research, medical ethics, techniques for researching medical and scientific questions, medical training, and medical professionalism. Letter grades will be given based on regular attendance and participation, an oral presentation, and a paper. Prereq or Coreq: LAWS 4201. The course is not open to bioethics Master's degree candidates. (BETH)

LAWS 5218. Health Care Regulation. 3 Units.
Course covers the administrative regulation of health law. The course will discuss the intersection of health law and administrative law by first reviewing administrative law concepts, such as delegation, and then discuss how these concepts are applied in health law.

LAWS 5219. Health Care Transactions. 2 Units.
This course will examine a variety of typical transactions among health care providers and payors. Students will have the opportunity to understand the financial motivation behind these transactions and to identify the unique health care law issues presented by them. Students will learn to develop alternative methods for structuring transactions to minimize or avoid such issues. The types of transactions to be examined include: physician recruitment, physician practice acquisitions, physician practice management companies, joint ventures between hospitals and physicians, mergers and acquisitions of health care providers, and formation of integrated delivery networks. Enrollment is limited to 25. Recommended preparation: LAWS 295.

LAWS 5220. Hospital and Physician Organization Law. 2 Units.
This course presents an overview of corporate health care law issues including: public and private reimbursement systems, fraud and abuse, physician self-referrals, corporate practice of medicine/fee splitting, certificate of need, tax-exempt status of health care providers, and antitrust and insurance regulation of health care providers. The course will examine the origins and public behind current corporate health care law and regulations and the issues they present for health care providers. Enrollment is limited to 25. Prereq or Coreq: LAWS 4201.

LAWS 5222. Master Classes in Health Law, Policy and Ethics. 2 Units.
Leading experts in the fields of health law, health policy, and bioethics will each teach one master class on a topic of their choice under the coordination of the instructor. The course will be open to graduate and professional students. The grade will be based on class participation and an examination.

LAWS 5223. Medical Malpractice Policy Issues. 2 Units.
This course examines the medical malpractice system from a theoretical, empirical, historical, and policy perspective. Students will study the legal, health sciences, and health services literature on the objectives of the system, how well it achieves its objectives, and proposals for changing it. Students are expected to engage in a sophisticated critique of the system and of the efforts to change it, and encouraged to devise their own proposals for changing the system. Prereq: LAWS 4201.

LAWS 5225. Research Ethics and Regulation. 2 Units.
This course is designed to introduce students to the ethical, policy, and legal issues raised by research involving human subjects. It is intended for law students, post-doctoral trainees in health-related disciplines and other students in relevant fields. Topics include (among others): regulation and monitoring of research; research in third-world nations; research with special populations; stem cell and genetic research; research to combat bioterrorism; scientific misconduct; conflicts of interest; commercialization and intellectual property; and the use of deception and placebos. Course will meet once per week for 2 hours throughout the semester. Grades will be based on class participation and a series of group projects and individual short writing assignments. Offered as BETH 503, CRSP 603 and LAWS 603.

LAWS 5311. Computer Law and Policy. 2 Units.
This course will address the ever-evolving issues that relate to intellectual property protection for computer software, with a particular emphasis on patent, copyright, and trade secret protection. The relationship of the Internet to such protection will also be explored. Throughout the semester, the course will consider the nuances of this dynamic area of the law and will also provide pragmatic approaches to common problems faced by intellectual property practitioners. Prereq: LAWS 4301 or LAWS 4302.
This course will be the first Contemporary Issues in Law and Technology template course. The course will be co-taught by Craig Nard and Declan McCullagh (LTA Fellow in Law and Technology and Washington Bureau Chief for Wired News). The course will cover (1) overview of principles of First Amendment analysis and its relationship to the Internet and the Communications Decency Act; (2) filtering and private restrictions on Internet Speech; (3) threats and the compilation of personal information; and (4) tensions between the First Amendment and the Copyright clause in digital content.

LAWS 5313. Copyright and Trademark Litigation. 2 Units.
This course will begin with an overview of a copyright litigation case and then proceed to discuss issues relating to pre-litigation strategy, infringement, and defenses to infringement. Thereafter, the course will explore the drafting of a complaint and the answer thereto, including counterclaims; drafting discovery documents; preparing witnesses; and taking and defending a deposition, which will take place in the context of a mock trial, many of the issues that pertain to a trial, including the roles of judge and jury, jury instructions, direct and cross-examination, jury selection, and post-trial motions. Prereq: LAWS 4300 or LAWS 4301 or LAWS 4303.

LAWS 5314. Cyberlaw. 3 Units.
This subject deals with how the law regulates and otherwise applies to activities taking place in ‘cyberspace.’ It considers how existing legal principles are being modified and extended in the digital information age to meet the needs of society, particularly in relation to electronic commerce. As the nature of dealings in cyberspace develops and new legal problems emerge over time, the focus of the subject may change to reflect current legal issues. However, topics for discussion will be drawn from the following: the nature of the internet, legal regulation of cyberspace vs. self-regulation, the relevance of international law/ international regulation, e-commerce contracting, ‘property’ in cyberspace with particular reference to intellectual property, trademarks and domain names, defamation on the Internet, online crime (e.g., fraud, pornography, etc.), information privacy and security, online dispute resolution and associated conflicts of law issues.

LAWS 5315. Entertainment Law. 1 - 3 Unit.
This course is designed to introduce students to the basic legal issues relevant to the film and television industries, as well as live performances, theatre, and various other aspects of the entertainment industry.

LAWS 5316. I.T. Principles for Lawyers. 1 Unit.
This course is designed to allow students to achieve an overview of information technology terms and concepts.

LAWS 5317. The Intersection of Unfair Competition and Intellectual Property. 2 Units.
Traces the role of tort, contract, and property in filling the gaps between copyright, trademark, and patent. The trace implicates federal and state systems and a cluster of rights such as trade secrets, ideas, industrial design, common law copyright, and moral rights.

LAWS 5318. Intellectual Property Transactions. 3 Units.
Students will explore how companies develop business and legal strategies to protect their intellectual property assets through agreements with strategic business partners, content providers, vendors, and licensees. As part of the course, students will select a company name and protect it, draft and negotiate agreements, and hold a mock negotiation at the end of the semester. One prior course in patent, trademark, or copyright is required. Grade is based on a final examination. Prereq: LAWS 4300 or LAWS 4301 or LAWS 4302 or LAWS 4303.

LAWS 5319. International Intellectual Property. 3 Units.
LAWS 5320. Internet Business and Law. 1 Unit.
This course provides Law students with an understanding of legal issues that need to be addressed in the development of digital business at the level of web site management and transactions. The course also highlights the critical role of technology as a source of new legal requirements, and also as a means to address and enforce legal requirements that are critical in conducting on-line business (e.g., demand for authenticity, or non-repudiation).

LAWS 5321. International Issues in Intellectual Property Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar will examine selected issues in comparative and international law affecting patents, copyrights, trademarks, and trade secrets. By looking at comparative systems, we will understand the differing philosophies underlying intellectual property in different legal cultures. By examining the movements to harmonize and unify national systems (looking at the process of harmonization, extraterritorial enforcement of rights, conflicts of law, and global protection), we will see how the different cultures are being merged. May satisfy the writing requirement. Recommended preparation: LAWS 370.

LAWS 5322. Intellectual Property & Dealmaking. 2 Units.
This course will provide you the opportunity to engage as an Intellectual Property (IP) specialist in a simulated M&A (merger and acquisition) corporate transaction. You will assume the role of an associate attorney in a law firm and handle certain aspects of the sale of assets of a business, including engaging in due diligence, reviewing and drafting documents, conducting research, analyzing negotiation techniques, learning about the specialist’s role in the transaction, and preparing for the closing of the transaction. Particular emphasis will be upon IP licensing (e.g., patent licenses, trademark licenses, etc.), such as reviewing and drafting IP licensing documents. You will learn skills that an IP lawyer should have by working on and resolving IP issues from actual projects. Accordingly, it is vital to your success in this course that you complete all assignments on time and actively participate in each class. Although this course is set within the context of a company acquisition, most of the IP issues you will be analyzing are generally applicable to many other projects that an IP associate will confront. Prereq: LAWS 4401 and (LAWS 4300 or LAWS 4302).
LAWS 5323. Intellectual Property from a Business and Strategic Planning Perspective. 1 Unit.
Intellectual property rights are legally created business assets used by companies to provide a competitive advantage in the marketplace. Companies use intellectual property differently depending on many factors, such as industry, business strategy, culture and maturity. Intellectual property attorneys are considered valuable members of business teams, contributing to business strategy, business planning and other executive level business decisions. Indeed, IP is a boardroom issue. This class will study the ways intellectual property is used by different companies and how the intellectual property laws impact not only the intellectual property assets, but also the business strategy and business planning. In addition to learning how intellectual property is being used by major corporations, universities, and entrepreneurs/start-ups, the students will pick one company and study how that company manages its intellectual property. Prereq: LAWS 4300 or LAWS 4302.

LAWS 5324. Law of the Music Industry. 2 Units.
This course will cover the major components of the music industry, including recording agreements (major label and independent labels), record producer deals, songwriting and music publishing concepts, group issues, personal appearances, and music in cyberspace. There will be an extensive discussion of fundamental copyright, trademark, and cyberlaw concepts, as well as advanced copyright concepts specifically related to the recording and publishing industry. Special attention will be paid to the topic of musical copyright infringement litigation. Course materials will include selected cases, forms of the above agreements, and selected handouts. Guest speakers will include a variety of industry professionals, including personal managers, recording artists, record company executives, and concert promoters. Students will be invited to participate in a variety of special events, including attending a music industry seminar at The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame sponsored by Cleveland's volunteer Lawyers for the Arts and attending the annual Mountain Dew High School Rock-Off held at the Odeon. Prereq: LAWS 4301 or LAWS 4300.

LAWS 5325. Law of the Visual Arts. 2 - 3 Units.
This seminar is concerned with the relationship between the art world and the law. The art world is comprised of numerous players, such as artists, dealers, museums, auction houses, art critics, forgers, thieves, looters, and the American and various foreign governments. This course focuses on the law's relationship with each of these entities and how these entities relate to one another in both a cultural and legal sense. In particular, this course will explore at least three of the following issues: theft and plunder of art (especially from 1933-45); the illicit international art trade; artists' rights such as First Amendment rights, copyright, moral rights, and the resale right; and the role and practice of museums in the art world, including provenance studies, and the museum's relationship with the artist and community. The first class (and some subsequent classes) will be held at the Cleveland Museum of Art. After a lecture by a museum curator, the students will be given a tour of the museum's collection that will focus on works of art that have particular relevance to the intersection of law and art. Prereq: LAWS 4301.

LAWS 5326. Patent Litigation. 1 Unit.
This course will simulate a patent infringement case. Students will be asked to represent a client, and in that capacity will identify issues, provide legal advice, and prepare papers and pleadings as necessary. In particular, students will be asked to conduct a limited number of the following simulations: draft a complaint and an answer to the complaint, including counterclaims; draft discovery documents; perform a mock Markman hearing; prepare witnesses, including expert witnesses; take and defend a deposition; or prepare pre-trial.

LAWS 5327. Patent Prosecution. 3 Units.
This course will expose students to the issues and concepts of drafting a patent application. Topics include defining an invention, drafting a patent application, responding to Office Actions issued by the USPTO. Patent law is a prerequisite. Grade is based on three short papers and a multiple choice final.

LAWS 5329. Strategic Management of Intellectual Property. 2 Units.
The course will focus on real-world issues encountered by intellectual property attorneys (in-house and outside counsel). Issues and relevant case law relating to due diligence, litigation strategy, procurement, licensing, enforcement, and defense will be discussed. Specific areas will include: (1) How to identify and classify IP as well as develop a corporate framework for fostering creation of IP, extracting it, documenting it, securing internal rights (e.g., forbidding employees to search others patents to mitigate willful infringement liability), or searching in only non-patent literature. There are numerous issues that will be presented and discussed during the course.

LAWS 5330. Business of Baseball. 3 Units.
This course will bring the “business of baseball” to the students, and present them with an interactive “hypothetical” problem-solving dialogue with the instructor, which would deal with the most important issues facing major and minor league baseball today. Prereq: LAWS 4401 and LAWS 5332.

LAWS 5331. Representing the Athlete. 3 Units.
The emphasis of this course will be placed various aspects involved in the providing legal services to professional athletes, including negotiation tactics and letter and contract drafting. The class will include several negotiation and drafting exercises as well as a simulated representative relationship between the student and the entertainer/athlete. In the context of a mock litigation/arbitration, students will also be required to draft legal briefs in support of the contractual positions taken during the contract drafting exercises.

LAWS 5332. Sports Law. 3 Units.
Sports and Entertainment Law is the study of legal issues and problems relating to the music, television, and sports industries. This course focuses on the applicability of various legal doctrines to these industries, such as intellectual property law, labor law, and contract law. Also, emphasis will be placed on negotiation tactics and letter and contract drafting by conducting several negotiation and drafting exercises as well as a simulated representative relationship between the student and the entertainer/athlete. In the context of a mock litigation/arbitration, students will also be required to draft legal briefs in support of the contractual positions taken during the contract drafting exercises. Prereq: LAWS 4401 and LAWS 4405.

LAWS 5333. Representing the Professional Athlete. 2 - 3 Units.
This course will begin with an overview of the sports marketing industry and then proceed to discuss one of the more important legal doctrines relating to that industry, involving intellectual property, labor law, and contract law. In that context, the course will explore the skills necessary to conduct a series of sports-related contract negotiations. Students will participate in group-based contract drafting exercises, including drafting product endorsements and license agreements, with an emphasis on client representations. Next, in the context of mock litigation, students will assume a contract breach, and will be required to draft deposition questions and legal briefs in support of their respective contractual position.
LAWS 5341. Commercialization and Intellectual Property Management. 3 Units.
This interdisciplinary course covers a variety of topics, including principles of intellectual property and intellectual property management, business strategies and modeling relevant to the creation of start-up companies and exploitation of IP rights as they relate to biomedical-related inventions. The goal of this two-semester course is to address issues relating to the commercialization of biomedical-related inventions by exposing law students, MBA students, and Ph.D. candidates (in genetics and proteomics) to the challenges and opportunities encountered when attempting to develop biomedical intellectual property from the point of early discovery to the clinic and market. Specifically, this course seeks to provide students with the ability to value a given technological advance or invention holistically, focusing on issues that extend beyond scientific efficacy and include patient and practitioner value propositions, legal and intellectual property protection, business modeling, potential market impacts, market competition, and ethical, social, and healthcare practitioner acceptance. The course will meet over two consecutive semesters--fall and spring--and is six credit hours (three credits each semester). During these two semesters, law students, MBA students, and Ph.D. candidates in genomics and proteomics will work in teams of five (two law students, two MBA students and one Ph.D. candidate), focusing on issues of commercialization and IP management of biomedical-related inventions. The instructors will be drawn from the law school, business school, and technology-transfer office. Please visit the following website for more information: fusioninnovate.com Offered as LAWS 367, MGMT 467, GENE 367 and GENE 467.

LAWS 5342. Commercialization and Intellectual Property Management. 3 Units.
This interdisciplinary course covers a variety of topics, including principles of intellectual property and intellectual property management, business strategies and modeling relevant to the creation of start-up companies and exploitation of IP rights as they relate to biomedical-related inventions. LAWS 5343. Intellectual Property Theory Seminar. 3 Units.
This course is designed to provide students with an overview of several areas of law traditionally associated with intellectual property or IP, including copyright law, which pertains to the protection of literary, musical, and artistic creations and has issues replete with First Amendment implications; patent law and trade secret law, which focus on the protection of technological works ranging from chemical formulae, to software, to biotechnology; and trademark law, which relates to the goodwill associated with corporate identity and product recognition. We will also devote time to the study of the philosophy and economics of intellectual property keeping in mind, throughout the course, the need to strike an optimal balance between incentives to create and commercialize intellectual creations on the one hand and public access to these creations on the other hand. Prereq: LAWS 4301 or LAWS 4302.

LAWS 5344. Negotiation Strategies in Sports Management. 2 - 3 Units.
This course covers drafting of sophisticated contractual documents in the Sports Law world. Document that will be negotiated and drafted include a lease agreement between a municipality that is constructing a new stadium/arena and the owner/operator of a team that will play in the new venue. Also covered will be naming rights, presenting sponsorship agreements for beverage/food, automobile/rental cars, and financial/medical services. We will also examine coordination of all sponsorships in the team's print/multimedia advertising, as well as with the broadcasts of the team's games.

LAWS 5334. Representing the Musical Artist. 2 - 3 Units.
This course focuses on practical training in counseling the musical artist with a particular focus on lawyering skills such as contract drafting, strategic thinking and negotiation. We follow the artist from the early days as a "baby band" to when the artist becomes "classic" or "heritage." You will observe the artist in the recording studio, the interactions among the band members, the creation of songs/sound recordings. You will be introduced to the cast of characters: the producer; the first manager; the label's A&R person; the recording engineer, and others. You will-as music lawyers commonly do- observe the artist creating in the studio and on a live stage and get a chance to speak with prominent managers, concert promoters, club owners, and artists.
LAWS 5361. Contexts of Authorship and Invention. 3 Units.
This seminar will explore the social and cultural construction of invention, the diverse ways in which invention has been conceptualized, from an interdisciplinary perspective—from the perspective, that is, not only of the law but of the arts and sciences in the broadest sense, including literature, the fine arts, entertainment, economics, medicine, engineering, education, and business. Emphasis will be on the cultures, rhetorics, and histories of invention across these fields. As such, this seminar represents an extension of the inquiry initiated at a conference held at Case Law School on “Intellectual Property and the Construction of Authorship.” This seminar will help prepare students to participate in a conference to be held in the Spring 2006 entitled (Con) texts of Invention.

LAWS 5362. Copyright in the Digital Millennium Seminar. 3 Units.
Copyright in the Digital Millennium is a seminar that explores the challenges to traditional copyright law presented by the advent of digital technology and the Internet. Beginning with the current litigation involving Internet file-sharing, we explore the legal and doctrinal issues raised by efforts to apply copyright and other legal and technological measures to digital works. In order to evaluate the competing arguments in this debate, students will examine the doctrinal, historical, and theoretical underpinnings of copyright law from multiple perspectives.

LAWS 5363. Intellectual Property Theory Seminar. 3 Units.
We will explore and ask several questions from a philosophical and historical perspective, including: Should one’s intellectual product be entitled to protection? What are the reasons for granting or denying protection? What form, if any, should this protection take? What are the costs and benefits to society of protecting one’s intellectual product?

LAWS 5401. International Tax. 3 Units.
This course examines the U.S. taxation of transactions undertaken by foreign individuals or entities in the U.S. as well as the U.S. taxation of transactions undertaken by U.S. individuals or entities abroad. Major topics that will be covered include determination of the source of income, the taxation of income derived from a U.S. trade or business, the withholding tax regime, taxation of various entities, controlled foreign corporations, the U.S. anti-deferral rules, the U.S. foreign tax credit, taxation of foreign currency transactions and the role of tax treaties. Prereq: LAWS 5403 or LAWS 5404.

LAWS 5402. Estate Planning and Taxation. 3 Units.
This course covers the federal law of estate and gift taxation. Topics include the computation of the estate tax, the taxation of gifts, the assets included in the gross estate, deductions from the gross estate to compute the taxable estate, credits against the tax, the generation-skipping transfer tax, and estate planning ideas and techniques, such as the use of trusts. The income taxation of estates and trusts is also covered. Grade is based on class participation and a major written paper on a topic chosen by the student and approved in advance by the instructor. Prereq: LAWS 4405 and LAWS 4809.

LAWS 5403. Federal Taxation of Corporations and Shareholders. 3 Units.
This course provides a comprehensive background in the taxation of corporations and shareholders, including the tax treatment of transfers of property to a corporation; distributions from a corporation to its shareholders; redemptions; liquidations; and the simpler forms of corporate reorganizations.

LAWS 5404. Federal Taxation of Partnerships and Partners. 3 Units.
This course will examine the basics of partnership taxation. The topics will include the tax consequences of capital contributions to and distributions from a partnership, the receipt of a partnership interest in exchange for services, the allocation of profits and losses among the partners, the computation of the adjusted basis of a partner’s interest, the sale or liquidation of a partner’s interest, and the liquidation and termination of the partnership. Prereq: LAWS 4405.

LAWS 5405. State Taxation. 3 Units.
This course will mainly explore restraints on the states’ power to tax imposed by the Due Process Clause, Equal Protection Clause, Commerce Clause, and Privileges and Immunities Clause. We will also explore issues of tax policy and politics as well as tax minimization strategies and administration. The course will primarily focus on the sales and use and corporate income taxes. We will focus on the states generally and not the laws of any particular state. Prior tax classes are not required.

LAWS 5406. Tax Law of Charitable Giving. 2 Units.
This course will examine the tax law that relates to charitable giving during life and at death, including the rules of deductibility of charitable gifts of cash and other kinds of property, various vehicles for planned giving (charitable remainder trusts, charitable gift annuities, and others), and the impact of other existing and proposed tax provisions on charitable giving.

LAWS 5408. International Tax Policy Seminar. 3 Units.
This survey seminar will examine the broad policies underlying income taxation in the international arena with a focus on residence- and source-based justifications for income taxation, the ways that these bases of taxation come into conflict, and the various methods that countries use to mitigate the potential damage from competing tax claims. The seminar will explore these concepts by focusing on a variety of specific international tax problems including harmful tax competition, negotiation of bilateral tax treaties, and the effect of e-commerce on source rules. Other topics that may be covered include offshore financial centers, or “tax havens,” tax treaties and treaty tax shelters. Limit 12. Recommended preparation: LAWS 211.

LAWS 5409. Tax Policy Seminar. 3 Units.
This advanced seminar for students interested in fundamental issues of tax policy and tax reform considers the favorable treatment of capital gains, the advisability of adopting a comprehensive tax base under a new definition of gross income, the use of tax incentives to achieve non-tax policy goals, and the basic system of taxing corporations and shareholders. May satisfy the writing requirement. Recommended preparation: LAWS 211.

LAWS 5411. Advanced Real Estate Development: Shopping Centers. 2 Units.
The course takes the point of view of the attorney for a real estate developer with a strong emphasis on shopping center development, including apartment complex and office building developments, but provides insights useful to an attorney for the other side: a tenant, financial institution, or major department store. The approach is practical as well as academic; the course may be considered a capstone for students interested in real estate. Topics include negotiations and documentation; actual documents are used.
LAWS 5412. Advanced Securities Regulation. 3 Units.
This course will expand on the disclosure and enforcement themes discussed in the Securities Regulation (LAWS 307) survey course to engage in an in-depth examination of selected real-world securities topics. The focus will be to deepen the student’s understanding of the SEC regulatory regime through consideration of current “hot topics” in securities law (such as executive compensation, 8-K disclosures, loss contingencies and Management’s Discussion & Analysis), by reviewing SEC pronouncements and working with actual or hypothetical disclosure and counseling situations. In addition to analyzing rules, students will participate in drafting, analyzing and commenting on sample disclosure documents and client advice memos. The course is designed to further the student’s understanding of a corporate/securities law practice as well as deepen the student’s substantive knowledge in securities regulation law. Prereq: LAWS 5431.

LAWS 5413. Antitrust Law. 3 Units.
A study of the implementation of federal trade regulation statutes with emphasis on the interrelationship of these laws with the competitive tensions of the contemporary economy.

LAWS 5414. Banking Law & Regulation. 3 Units.
This course will provide an overview of basic U.S. Federal banking law in the context of evolving international standards. The course will begin by examining the roles played by banks in the world economy and why a specialized set of regulation is justified. The course will then examine each of the major U.S. Federal laws and international standards that govern banking activities against the background of the various regulatory theories discussed. Topics will include entry, expansion/merger, capital, reserves, investments, lending, interest, insolvency, non-banking financial activities, money laundering, and international activities. Close attention will be given to the role of supervision in both domestic and international contexts. Extensive use will be made of international and comparative materials

LAWS 5415. Bankruptcy. 3 Units.
An introduction to bankruptcy law, with emphasis on the current Federal Bankruptcy Code. The course includes Chapter 7 (liquidation bankruptcy proceedings), Chapter 11 (business reorganizations), and Chapter 13 (simplified reorganizations for individuals and sole proprietorships). Also considered are various state law debtor-creditor remedies and the impact of bankruptcy on such remedies. Prior enrollment in the UCC and debtor-creditor courses may be helpful but is not mandatory.

LAWS 5416. Business Planning. 3 Units.
Major events in the creation and development of a business are examined in light of partnership, corporate, and tax law problems. Students are presented with a series of hypothetical client-suggested transactions. Students seek the most appropriate means of attaining the business ends desired by the principals. From time to time, brief written memoranda covering issues raised by the problem scenarios may be required. Emphasis is placed on the interaction among partnership, corporate, tax, and securities concepts and doctrine. The significant business events that may be covered in the course include formation of a partnership; incorporation of a going concern; corporate distributions, recapitalizations, and repurchases of shares; sale of the corporate business; and corporate combination. Prereq: LAWS 4401 and LAWS 4405.

This course is designed as an introductory course for second- and third-year law students who want to understand the way in which businesses are managed and financed, the various roles that capital markets play in their development, and the methods for measuring business success. Intensive case studies will be used as a framework for looking at real world situations. The course will integrate guest lectures from visiting business leaders. CFOs will explain how they measure the success of their business and what financial information is required to do their job. Finally, a part of each class will evaluate real time business issues, applying the lessons learned from the case studies and modeling the expected outcomes. James Bildner, CWRU alumnus and CEO of Tier Technologies, will teach the course. Students will write a paper based on a case study. This course will count toward the nine-credit limit on non-law school courses. Prereq: LAWS 4401.

LAWS 5418. Corporate Real Estate Transactions. 2 Units.
Real estate is typically the largest single category of capital investment and the second largest category of repeat expense (after total personnel costs) for most businesses. Major industrial and service sector companies are increasingly focused on the opportunities and challenges inherent in the real estate portfolios that support their core operations. This course will explore how to manage the real estate portfolios of major industrial and service sector companies in the context of evolving international standards. The course will consider advanced transactional situations, including purchase and sale of commercial properties, leasing of business properties, and complex industrial facilities. The course’s emphasis on case studies and commercial transaction scenarios are also designed to act as a capstone course that complements and draws upon the students’ prior coursework in contracts, real estate and commercial transactions, law school courses. Prereq: LAWS 4401.

LAWS 5419. Debtor-Creditor Law. 3 Units.
Intensive case studies will be used as a framework for looking at real world situations. The course will integrate guest lectures from visiting business leaders. CFOs will explain how they measure the success of their business and what financial information is required to do their job. Finally, a part of each class will evaluate real time business issues, applying the lessons learned from the case studies and modeling the expected outcomes. James Bildner, CWRU alumnus and CEO of Tier Technologies, will teach the course. Students will write a paper based on a case study. This course will count toward the nine-credit limit on non-law school courses. Prereq: LAWS 4401.
LAWS 5420. ERISA. 4 Units.
This class will cover employee benefits law. (ERISA): defined benefit plans, including in-depth consideration of defined benefit plan documents; VEBA’s, their use and regulation; group life, Accidental Death & Dismemberment, and Long Term Disability plans and related insurance documents; insured and non-insured medical benefit plans; reporting and disclosure requirements of ERISA, including summary plan descriptions, summary of material modifications, Form 5500, and “top hat” elections; and requests for favorable determinations of qualified plans, including Form 5300 and Notices to Interested Parties.

LAWS 5421. Financial Principles for Lawyers. 3 Units.
This course provides an introduction to the use of financial economics that are frequently relevant in many areas of law. Topics to be covered include the time value of money, uncertainty, claim structure (including the characteristics of debt, equity, and hybrid securities, and the benefits and detriments of debt and equity financing), behavior of securities markets, and analysis of financial statements. Use of these concepts in specific areas of legal practice will be discussed.

LAWS 5422. Financial Markets: Law, Theory, and Practice. 2 Units.
Explores the interactions of law, principles of finance, and the theoretical underpinnings of financial markets. It introduces students to the roots of evolving financial market liabilities affecting the interests and conduct of people at all levels in those markets by examining (a) the structure and purpose of financial markets, (b) the financial and capital market theories which today shape the contours of the law, (c) intermediation in financial markets, and (d) the challenges of global market regulation.

LAWS 5423. Financial Integrity in Emerging Markets Lab. 3 Units.
In this course, which is offered alternately as either a lab or a seminar, students study and research key aspects of the international financial system integrity rules, with a focus on the anti-money laundering and terrorism financing standards of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) and the Basel Core Principles on Banking Supervision of the Basel Committee (as well as similar standards promulgated for other financial institutions). When offered as a lab, the course engages students in projects for a variety of organizations involved in improving the integrity of financial institutions, including the FATF (as well as FATF-style regional bodies), the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank, the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, and locally based governmental and non-governmental organizations. Students satisfactorily completing this course will be eligible to apply for a fully paid summer internship with a local bank that will involve work in the bank’s legal, anti-money laundering and financial intelligence units. Recommended preparation: LAWS 211 and LAWS 307.

LAWS 5424. Insurance. 3 Units.
A comprehensive introduction to the regulation of the insurance industry and to the legal issues arising from relations between the parties to insurance contracts. The course examines statutory regulation of the industry by state and federal agencies and analyzes cases involving aggressive regulation by the judiciary as well. Insurance decisions on the cutting edge of developments in contract, tort, and agency law are studied. Students are required to study the policy forms most frequently encountered in practice: the automobile policy, the homeowner’s policy, and the life insurance policy. The course also provides exposure to problems relating to other areas of insurance including commercial general liability coverage, fire insurance, professional liability (malpractice) coverage, and health insurance.

LAWS 5425. International Business Organizations. 3 Units.
This course offers a combined classroom and field experience designed to help students understand why U.S. multinational corporations engage in transactions through offshore financial centers or "tax havens." To this end, the course will provide an introduction to and address the tax and other policy implications of various international business structures and strategies including captive insurance arrangements, asset securitizations, hedge funds and offshore banking. The course will consist of four Friday afternoon sessions in the early part of the spring semester, followed by a week-long visit to the Cayman Islands during spring break, when students will meet and hear from academics, private-sector professionals and government officials based in the Cayman.

LAWS 5426. International Real Estate Transactions. 2 Units.
The course will explore selected topics involved in international real estate transactions, from the perspective of an American counsel representing an American entity doing business abroad. Topics may include structuring, transactional goals, due diligence, letters of intent and documentation, deal implementation, title protection, and others. The course will use traditional learning techniques as well as case studies and simulations, with a major focus on letters of intent/documentation. Students will be graded based on class participation and presentations, written assignments, and a final paper/take home exam. Recommended preparation: LAWS 385 (may be taken concurrently).

LAWS 5427. Mergers and Acquisitions. 3 Units.
Topics include the corporate and securities law governing various forms of mergers and acquisitions; business motivations for mergers; concerns of acquiring and acquired companies in friendly mergers; bidders’ techniques and targets’ defenses in hostile tender offers and proxy contests; valuation of businesses and investments, portfolio theory, and capital markets; concerns of companies and investors in negotiating corporate financing. Prereq: LAWS 4401.

LAWS 5428. Products Liability. 2 Units.
Explores in depth the liability of manufacturers and sellers for physical injury to persons or property caused by defective products. The relevant law includes UCC warranty provisions, Restatement of Tort (Second) section 402A and other tort law, state “tort reform” statutes, and federal and state statutes regulating product safety, such as the FDA and the Consumer Product Safety Act. The course will also examine proposals to “reform” the law of products liability.

LAWS 5429. Real Estate Transactions and Finance. 2 - 3 Units.
Covers basic real estate transactions as well as issues involved in complex finance and development. Topics include: brokers, land contracts of sale, deeds and title covenants, the recording system, title insurance, mortgages, shopping center development, cooperatives and condominiums, ground lease financing, construction lending, distressed properties, selected federal income tax issues, and the real estate attorney’s professional responsibilities. Whenever possible, issues will be examined in the context of model transactions.
LAWS 5431. Securities Regulation. 3 Units.
This course explores the policies and techniques of state and federal investor protection, with emphasis on the distribution of securities by issuers and their affiliates. After an analysis of express general anti-fraud remedies, the "security" concept, and the diverse philosophies underlying "value judgment" and "disclosure" approaches to regulation of business fund-raising practices, the course proceeds to a full consideration of the impact of the Federal Securities Act of 1933 on primary and secondary distributions. Concurrent as well as independent effects of state blue sky laws, typified by the Uniform Securities Act, are also treated. To round out the total pattern of investor protection in the distributional setting, the course includes limited excursions into the anti-fraud, periodic reporting, public information availability, and broker-dealer aspects of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Prereq: LAWS 4401.

LAWS 5432. Selected Topics in Business and Law. 1 Unit.
This course will focus on the key principles of business operations and the financial tools necessary to measure business performance and the roles that lawyers play in advising business clients in today's environment, as well as the intersection of law and business in our economy. Coverage and emphasis will vary from year to year. The course will use cases, real time filings by corporations, and 2-3 books written about well-known business transactions and is co-taught by a visiting practitioner or business leader and a member of the regular faculty.

LAWS 5433. Commercial Paper. 3 Units.
One of the basic courses in commercial law, dealing with the law of negotiable instruments and bank collections and deposits. These topics are considered primarily under the Uniform Commercial Code and, to some extent, recent federal banking and consumer credit legislation.

LAWS 5434. Secured Transactions. 2 Units.
This course deals with Article 9 of the UCC and other legal and equitable rules relating to the use of personal property as security for debts. Topics covered include creation of a security interest (mortgage), rights and obligations of the debtor (mortgagor) and the secured party (mortgagee), priority of interests in the same property, redemption rights of the debtor, and foreclosure of a security interest by the mortgagee. May not be taken by students who have taken or are taking the 4-credit Sales and Secured Transactions course (LAWS 266). Students who have taken or are planning to take the 3-credit Sales (LAWS 381) course may enroll.

LAWS 5435. Sales and Secured Financing. 4 Units.
A concentrated survey of the law relating to the sale and lease of goods and secured financing. (1) Sales. The primary focus will be on the law relating to the sale of goods in commercial setting, i.e., Article 2 of the Uniform Commercial Code. Some attention will be given to the United Nations Convention on the International Sale of Goods. Considerable attention will also be given to consumer sales issues, e.g., the Uniform Consumer Sales Practices Act and similar legislation. There will be some coverage of leasing of goods under Article 2A of the UCC. (2) Secured Financing. Personal property security interests under Article 9 of the UCC will be examined in considerable depth. Real property mortgages will not be covered. Not open to students who are taking or have taken Sales (LAWS 381) or Property Security (LAWS 377). Students taking this course are precluded from subsequently taking either of those courses.

LAWS 5436. Financial Institutions Regulation. 3 Units.

LAWS 5437. Credit Transactions in Global Economy. 1 Unit.
This course offers a comparative and international view of secured credit transactions. Students will examine recent conventions that attempt to harmonize the law of secured credit, including the UN Convention on the Assignment of Receivables, the Unidroit Convention on International Factoring, the EBRD Model Law on Secured Transactions, the Unidroit Convention on the International Interests in Mobile Equipment and the UNCITRAL Legislative Guide on Secured Transactions. Students will consider the policy and theory underlying the law of secured transactions and will examine how much transactions relate to the broader global economy. Coreq: LAWS 5434.

LAWS 5438. Business Organizations Research Seminar. 2 Units.
An opportunity to undertake significant research and writing on the law of business organizations. Each student will be expected to complete a major paper in satisfaction of the upper level writing requirement. A satisfactory paper will meet the writing requirement for the concentration in Business Organizations. Limited to 12. Prereq: LAWS 4401.

LAWS 5439. Corporate Finance. 3 Units.
This course provides both an introduction to important financial concepts and, more centrally, an investigation of how those concepts come into play in the law (particularly corporate law). Topics covered will include: the capital asset pricing model, the efficient capital market hypothesis, the characteristics of debt and equity financing, options, and hedging. The course assumes no familiarity with these financial concepts, and while the math involved is critical, it will also be elementary. Throughout, the emphasis will be on gaining the ability to use concepts from finance in the context of legal problems. Prereq: LAWS 4401.

LAWS 5460. Advanced Nonprofit Organizations Seminar. 3 Units.
In this seminar, students will explore selected topics related to structure, governance, tax exemption, and government oversight of nonprofit organizations. Class readings and discussions for the first several weeks will build on the basic understanding developed in LAWS 234, Law of Nonprofit Organizations. Topics will be selected to consider framework in context, using recent real-life case studies. Students will write a significant paper on a chosen topic and present it to the class. The course grade will be based on the paper, the presentation, and class participation. Paper may satisfy writing requirement. Prereq: LAWS 4402.

LAWS 5461. Commercial Information and the Law. 3 Units.
This seminar focuses on defining 'commercial information' from a lawyer's perspective and analyzing ways in which laws in different jurisdictions are developing to protect owners and developers of such information from unauthorized access, interference, disclosure and/or use of their information products and services. The subject will be taught from a comparative/international perspective because of the increasingly global nature of many of the issues for discussion. Class discussion topics will include: the nature of commercial information and its relationship to the legal concept of property; the relationship between commercial information and intellectual property law (specifically copyright, patent, and trade secret law); case studies involving Internet business methods, computer software and electronic databases and the way in which intellectual property laws have developed in relation to these information products; the use of contract law and technological protection measures to protect the value of information stored and accessed electronically; and problems of financing businesses, and generally valuing business assets, where the main valuable assets are commercial information products.

LAWS 5704. Adoption Law. 2 Units.
This course surveys adoption law in the United States, including public and private adoptions, international adoptions, and the legal issues involving reproductive law and surrogacy.
LAWS 5705. Advanced Family Law. 2 Units.
This is a simulation course in advanced family law. Students will conduct the preparation, strategy, and execution of a civil family law hearing in selected areas, e.g., domestic violence. The student will study a major statute (e.g., Domestic Violence Statute, Ohio Code Section 3113.31), and simultaneously master the techniques of hearing, including opening statement, direct examination, cross examination, closing argument, and learn the use of evidentiary objections and the handling of documents at trial. The choice of topic may change from year to year. Prereq: LAWS 5730 or LAWS 5753.

LAWS 5706. Advanced Legal Research. 3 Units.
This course provides in-depth exposure to the sources of law and legal commentary generated in American and other legal systems, and provides hand-on exposure to sophisticated methodologies for effective legal research in all media. Upon completion of the course, students will be equipped to plan and execute effective research on familiar or unfamiliar legal topics.

LAWS 5707. Alternative Dispute Resolution. 2 Units.
Students will examine the processes of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) through reading materials, videotapes, guest lectures, and simulation exercises. Particular emphasis will be given to the interaction of lawyers and clients in business negotiations and in litigation. Negotiation, arbitration, mediation, the summary jury trial, and the mini-trial will be examined. The class will also cover impediments to ADR, such as lack of understanding or hostility on the part of clients or lawyers. Offered as LAWS 351 and LHRP 451.

LAWS 5708. American Indian Law. 2 Units.
An introduction to the body of law governing the relationship among Indian tribes and state and federal governments. Major themes include tribal sovereignty; the federal-tribal relationship; criminal, tax, and regulatory jurisdiction on reservations; and the rights of individual Indians. Does not fulfill writing requirement.

LAWS 5709. Animal Law. 2 Units.
The goals of the course are to: a. Provide a clear understanding of the status of animal law as it currently exists, with an emphasis on recent statutes and caselaw; b. Explore how the law handles animals and animal-related issues in comparison with humans and other property; c. Provide a hands-on, practical experience for students who wish to grapple with cases involving animal law with either a moot court or special research project; d. Get students to think about and develop their own philosophy as it relates to animal law, and to test legal theories for advancing animal jurisprudence in the direction they deem appropriate.

LAWS 5710. Canon Law. 2 Units.
This course examines the legal system of the Roman Catholic Church. In addition to an historical overview of the science of canon law, lectures address specific canons of the Code of Canon Law and selected canonical issues. Subjects to be considered include marital law, ecclesiastical sanctions (i.e., criminal law) and procedures, trial procedures.

LAWS 5711. Civil Rights. 3 Units.
This course will examine the enforcement of federal civil rights against the government, government officials, and private individuals. The course will focus partly on the unique issues and challenges involved in litigating civil rights cases, and approximately the first half of the semester will be spent on 42 U.S.C. § 1983, the “all-purpose” civil rights statute. We will discuss the mechanics of litigating federal civil rights cases, such as the state action requirement, absolute and qualified immunities, liability of municipalities, limitations on injunctive relief, and attorney’s fees. Much of the second half of the semester will be devoted to other civil rights statutes, such as the Fair Housing Act, the Voting Rights Act, Title IX, and Title VI. The course will not cover statutes dealing with discrimination in the workplace, however, as those topics are treated fully in the Employment Discrimination course.

LAWS 5712. Community Development Law. 2 Units.
An examination of the law of economic and land development in underserved and deteriorated areas. Legal issues related to business organization, financing, real estate development, governmental programs, and regulation and taxation (among other areas) will be covered. Topics include background of urban deterioration, governmental and private sources of assistance, organizing the developing entity, financing the project, governmental programs, tax policy and programs, land assemble, and administration of developments.

LAWS 5713. Complex Federal Criminal Investigation and Prosecution. 3 Units.
The course will explore some of the practical, substantive, and ethical issues that arise in complex federal investigations and prosecutions. Students will read cases and articles concerning topics such as the use of electronic surveillance, plea bargaining, and contacts with persons represented by counsel. They will also discuss how the law limits or enhances the powers of federal prosecutors conducting criminal investigations and prosecutions. Grade will be based on class participation and a take-home examination. Prereq: LAWS 1102 and LAWS 4807.

LAWS 5714. Complex Litigation. 2 Units.
Analysis of key issues typically encountered in complex civil litigation including substantive implications of seemingly procedural choices. Class actions, multidistrict litigation, joinder and consolidation. Exploration of practical and ethical issues encountered in complex civil litigation.

LAWS 5715. Computers and Crime. 1 Unit.
The course will cover both the new kinds of criminal activity made possible by computer technology and the use of computer technology to commit traditional crimes like embezzlement and terrorism. The class will examine Internet gambling and the distribution of child pornography on the Internet to illustrate issues that arise in connection with the use of computer technology in criminal activity. The class will also focus on procedural issues like jurisdiction and venue that become problematic in the context of computer crime. Limited to 20. Prereq: LAWS 1102 and LAWS 4807.

LAWS 5716. Conflict of Laws. 2 Units.
Competing approaches to choice of law in cases having multi-state and/or multi-national contacts. The course also covers personal jurisdiction, constitutional and international limitations on choice of law, and enforcement of judgments. Comparative and international perspectives are integrated throughout. Students develop their own choice of law theory in a simulated restatement conference.
LAWS 5717. Constitutional Law II. 3 Units.
This course explores the individual freedoms protected by the First Amendment. Primary attention is devoted to the freedoms of speech, assembly, and association. The course analyzes what is protected, why it is protected, and to what degree it is protected. Topics covered include prior restraint, advocacy of unlawful conduct, the hostile audience, defamation, commercial speech, obscenity, offensive speech, expression on public property, and symbolic speech.

LAWS 5718. Criminal Procedure II. 2 Units.
The adjudicatory stage of the criminal process. Pretrial release, preliminary hearings, grand jury practice, speedy and public trial, discovery, right to trial, guilty pleas, right to counsel, and double jeopardy are examined. Prereq: LAWS 4807.

LAWS 5719. Cross-cultural Dispute Resolution. 2 Units.
Students will explore a wide range of domestic, foreign, and international dispute resolution processes, with emphasis on dispute resolutions amongst parties of different cultural and legal traditions.

LAWS 5720. Death Penalty Law and Process. 2 Units.
The course offers a review of the death penalty process, theory, and law from trial through execution, including examination of state laws and federal habeas corpus law. The course focuses on the legal principles implicated by the death penalty and also examines the social issues it raises including the social/legal arguments against the death penalty, race and gender issues, and the influence of political and other factors on the process. Recommended preparation: LAWS 327.

LAWS 5721. Death Penalty Lab. 3 Units.
This Lab will involve students in an integrated experience of academic research and public service. Students will work on semester-long research projects arising from actual death penalty cases that will be of assistance to practitioners in death penalty cases or research projects for governmental and non-governmental organizations engaged in support for, opposition to, or reform of the death penalty at a local state, national, or global level. Issues may include: victim’s rights; jury selection (race/gender discrimination); proportionality (discrepancies in geographic application or application to different fact patterns); economic impact on the system; clemency; and transnational problems with foreign accused; systemic review (e.g., Illinois commission); and other specific recurring issues arising from innocence, assistance of counsel, experts, jury instructions, or misconduct (judge, attorney, jury). The students will have no direct representation responsibilities.

LAWS 5722. Death Penalty Lab II. 2 Units.
This lab will involve students in an integrated experience of academic research and public service. As enrollment is limited to students who have successfully completed Lab I, these students will assume a supervisory role working with Lab I students. Students will work on research projects arising from actual death penalty cases that will be of assistance to practitioners in death penalty cases or research projects for governmental and non-governmental organizations engaged in support for, opposition to, or reform of the death penalty at a local state, national, or global level. Issues may include: jury selection issues; proportionality issues; economic impact of the application of the death penalty; examination of issues surrounding a specific state’s ability to provide a viable clemency; issues of international law; research, investigation, and litigation of case specific issues ranging from actual innocence, ineffective assistance of counsel, ineffective assistance of experts, prosecutorial misconduct, judicial misconduct, juror misconduct, etc. Prereq: LAWS 5721.

LAWS 5723. Disability Law. 3 Units.
Disability Law provides a comprehensive overview of the federal laws relating to individuals with disabilities. The course focuses on issues of nondiscrimination and affirmative rights in the areas of employment, government programs and services, places of public accommodation and education. Beyond analyzing the legal framework that shapes disability rights, the course will also discuss issues related to disability rights from a social policy perspective.

LAWS 5724. Discrimination in Employment. 3 Units.
This course will examine the federal laws concerning discrimination in the workplace. These include Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act. We will study the regulation of discrimination based on race, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, and genetic status, including policy and ethical question and strategic considerations in prosecuting and defending employment-based civil rights actions.

LAWS 5725. Education Law. 3 Units.
This course surveys the legal and social policy challenges related to public education settings. Students will study relevant constitutional issues, legislative mandates, school vouchers to supplement tuitions in private schools, charter schools, and more recent attempts under state constitutions to provide a quality education for all children. Beyond analyzing the legal frameworks that shape public education, the course will also cover the difficulties confronting public education from a sociological perspective.

LAWS 5726. Employment Law. 3 Units.
This course examines employer-employee relations in non-union settings. Topics include wrongful discharge, occupational safety and health regulation, minimum wage, and workplace privacy issues. The course emphasizes written work, including advanced legal research training. Minimal overlap with Labor Law (LAWS 359) and Discrimination in Employment (LAWS 328).

LAWS 5727. Environmental Law. 3 Units.
The course is designed to provide an overview of both the breadth and depth of environmental regulation in the United States and to consider ways our environmental regulatory system might be improved. Although all of the major environmental laws will be surveyed, several statutes will be examined in greater detail. Students will be expected to navigate select provisions of statutes and regulations through in-class problem sets. Guest speakers will also be invited to speak on topics of current interest.

LAWS 5728. ePayment Systems Seminar. 1 Unit.
This seminar builds on the foundation established during the first-year curriculum and focuses on the law and technology of payment systems. Such topics will include the contractual relationship amongst and between the various organizations transacting to enable a b2c payment; the various elements of such agreements; the various impacts of a payment system (criminal, civil, and administrative); the implications for legal structure and policy; and the ethical considerations of a lawyer advising clients within this domain. Grade is based on a paper, a presentation, and class attendance and participation.
LAWS 5729. Expert Testimony in Civil Cases. 3 Units.
This course addresses the use of expert witnesses in civil trials, focusing on evidentiary issues. We will first examine several theoretical and conceptual issues concerning the role of experts as well as the pertinent standards of admissibility. We will give careful attention to what it means to make an argument from expert opinion. Then we will examine the use of expertise in a variety of contexts, including the proof of identity, proof of causation, proof of breach of duty, and proof of damages. Prereq: LAWS 1201 and LAWS 4808.

LAWS 5730. Family Law. 3 Units.
This survey course covers law relating to the creation, functioning, and dissolution of the family as a legal unit. Topics include legitimacy, adoption, procreative rights, cohabitation, marriage, family obligations, division of marital property, divorce and annulment, and child custody. Particular attention is given to the social forces that affect the development of rules and policies.

LAWS 5731. Federal Courts. 3 Units.
This course explores the relationships between the federal courts, Congress, and state courts and governments. Topics include congressional control of federal jurisdiction, justiciability, federal court abstention, suits against state and federal governments and officials, habeas corpus, and federal injunctions on state proceedings.

LAWS 5732. Government Contracts. 2 Units.
Government procurement law continues to interest policymakers, corporations, and legal employers in part because the total value of active federal contracts under administration exceeds several trillion dollars. This is a survey course covering many issues involved in the administration of federal contracts and procurement law. Subjects covered include contract interpretation, risk allocation, changes, differing site conditions, inspection, acceptance and termination.

LAWS 5733. Immigration Law. 2 Units.
The general principles of immigration law and procedure, including federal authority to regulate immigration, removal of aliens (deportation and exclusion), administrative and judicial review, fleeing persecution (refugees, asylees, and others), immigrant and nonimmigrant visas, and consular practice. The course will emphasize practical application of current immigration law.

LAWS 5734. Immigration Law II. 1 Unit.
The course is dedicated to the study of visas for visitors and aliens of extraordinary ability in the sciences, arts, or entertainment. Course materials will be drawn from Legomsky’s Immigration and Refugee Law and Policy, the Immigration and Nationality Act, and Title 8 (CFR). Students will be required to write a paper or prepare a visa petition. The course will likely be offered every other year. Prereq: LAWS 5733.

LAWS 5735. International Environmental Law. 3 Units.
This course examines selected issues and current problems in international environmental law, with a particular focus on transboundary environmental problems, global "commons," and the development, implementation and enforcement of international environmental agreements. Requirements for the class will include several short writing assignments and weekly simulations and role-play exercises. There will be no final exam. Limited enrollment of 20 students.

LAWS 5736. Juvenile Law. 2 Units.
The role of the juvenile court in society: its jurisdiction, procedures, and dispositional alternatives. Students study both the quasi-criminal aspects of the juvenile court (jurisdiction over juvenile delinquents and status offenders) and the civil-protective aspects of the court (termination of parental rights and the handling of neglected, dependent, and abused children). In addition, the rights afforded juveniles are compared with the rights afforded adults in comparable circumstances. Many related juvenile justice issues, such as the right of a minor female to have an abortion without parental notice and the constitutionality of capital punishment for juvenile offenders, are also examined.

LAWS 5737. Labor Law. 3 Units.
The basic course in the area of union-management relations, designed both for students desiring to pursue the field further and for those whose interest lies in an introduction to legal principles in this area. The course begins with a brief historical study of the evolution of the labor movement and prestatutory law. It then considers federal regulation under the National Labor Relations Act of union organizational efforts, management-union interaction, and the representational process, then proceeds to the collective bargaining process. The collective bargaining process is examined in some depth with special emphasis on the scope and substance of the duty to bargain in good faith, the enforcement of collective bargaining agreements in courts and by arbitrators, and the legal regulation of industrial warfare, the strike and lockout.

LAWS 5738. Land Use Control. 3 Units.
This course analyzes the public control of land use, primarily at the local and state levels. Both legal and policy perspectives are considered. Attention is given to constitutional limitations such as the takings doctrine, equal protection, and due process. Topics considered include zoning, subdivision controls, exclusionary regulations, and historic preservation.

LAWS 5739. Law of Archeological Relics. 2 Units.
This course addresses the private and public law relating to the ownership, sale, use, and repatriation of archeological artifacts other than human remains. The readings include excerpts from articles and books regarding the international trade (legal and illegal) in such artifacts. Significant attention is given to international law, such as the UNESCO Convention on Cultural Property.

LAWS 5740. Leadership and Communication Skills for Lawyers. 2 Units.
This 13-week interactive course will provide students with the tools and techniques needed to be more capable speakers and communicators. While the course will include some training for persuasive public speaking, the focus will be on developing effective communication skills so that students will have the requisite confidence, focus, and control to speak in a variety of settings. A section of the class will also concentrate on handling the media including how to control a message and advice for clients who may be in the public spotlight. The program will be interactive so that students have numerous opportunities to participate and speak. Role-playing exercises will be utilized as well as video-taped playback. Grading is based on participation and improvement and there will not be a final exam.

LAWS 5741. Legal History of the Corporation. 3 Units.
This course will examine the history of the modern corporate form, beginning with the revolutionary changes of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The goal is to explore the contingent nature of the corporation through a focus on its history as well as to examine the social, ecological and political consequences of what has become the most powerful economic institution in world history.
LAWS 5742. Legal Theory, Selected Topics. 2 Units.
This two-semester sequence examines selected issues in legal theory. The subject matter varies from year to year and will be announced at the time of registration for the first of the two semesters. The first semester (Selected Topics in Legal Theory I), will entail a close reading of one or more selected scholarly works that have advanced our understanding of the deep structures of the law. Students will be required to write one or more short, non-research papers during the term that engage the readings, and a separate grade will be assigned for the term based on these papers and class participation. At the end of the term, students wishing to continue during the second semester of the sequence and complete their writing requirement for graduation will select their topics; the topic must be the examination and critique of some argument or thesis presented in or arising from the readings for the fall semester. Prereq or coreq: LAWS 4808.

LAWS 5743. Legislation. 2 - 3 Units.
This course is a study of the legislative process and product. The class will examine theories of the legislative function; campaign and election regulation; the processes through which the legislature acts; and the drafting and interpreting of statutes.

LAWS 5744. Mediation Representation: Theory, Principle and Practice. 2 Units.
An advanced course exploring the fundamentals of conflict, mediation theory, doctrine and practice, its historical evolution and increasing use as a centerpiece of modern legal dispute resolution. The course will cover the theory, doctrine, history and practice of mediation; the mediation process; the mediator’s, client’s, and advocate’s role in mediation; the underlying principles of bargaining, risk and value and how to adapt these negotiation skills for a mediation setting. Students will also learn how to use mediation as a problem-solver for the client. Format is lecture, discussion and student presentation and simulation. The course includes the writing of mediation memoranda, as well as mediation role playing, with critique from the teachers and invited guest mediation practitioners.

LAWS 5745. National Security Law. 3 Units.
Provides a study of the separation of powers in national security matters, presidential war powers, congressional and presidential emergency powers, the domestic effect of international law, the use of military force in international relations, investigating national security threats, the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts, access to national security information in the federal courts, and restraints on disclosing and publishing national security information. The course builds upon a strong foundation of constitutional law and addresses the fundamental tension that exists in our foreign and domestic affairs by virtue of the constitutional separation of powers between the respective branches of government. Several classroom hours will be spent dealing with constitutional war powers and how the executive and legislative branches have tried to define their respective measures of expressed and implied power with regard to the Vietnam War, the War Powers Resolution of 1973, and more recent US incursions such as the first Persian Gulf War and the most recent invasion of Iraq.

LAWS 5746. Ohio Constitutional History. 3 Units.
This course will focus on the constitutional history of Ohio and the economic, social, and political forces that influenced the development of the Ohio Constitution. The approach will be both chronological and thematic. The course will place Ohio constitutional history in its larger historical context-the Founding Era, the Northwest Ordinance and the Path to Statehood, the Age of Jackson, the Progressive Movement, the New Federalism, and Modern Constitutional Revision. The course will also examine the following topics: the treatment of African-Americans, the rights of women, judicial review, separation of powers, the temperance movement, municipal home rule, tort reform, judicial selection, and the bill of rights. Students will be expected to work with primary source documents; there will be a required paper but no final exam. Students papers will not be limited to Ohio topics.

LAWS 5747. Philosophy of Law. 3 Units.
This is an examination of the general nature of law, the broad concerns of jurisprudence, the study of comparative law, and many of the issues raised in the literature of legal philosophy. Students will examine the principles of legal positivism, mitigated natural law, and rights theory. Selected readings and cases will illustrate these theories, which will also be examined in the context of rule selection by new governments in developing or revolutionary societies. The course also looks at the general nature of legal systems: how politics, morality, and individual views of justice and rights affect particular court cases and the course and development of law generally. Topics will include abortion, obscenity and sin, civil disobedience, affirmative action, surrogacy, and the death penalty. This is unlike any other of the legal theory or jurisprudence courses, and those who have sampled legal theory elsewhere in a different form are welcome and encouraged to enroll. Recommended preparation: PHIL 101. Offered as LAWS 353, PHIL 335, and PHIL 435.

LAWS 5748. Poverty, Social Inequality, and the Law. 3 Units.
An overview of the way the law impacts on disadvantaged people, and the law that supports advocacy on their behalf. Students will learn about legal problems that are common to poor people and identify potential solutions. The course will analyze the effectiveness of various legal interventions such as administrative advocacy, and litigation (including individual and class representation) in various contexts. Past and current means of using and changing the law on behalf of low-income people will be studied. Students will analyze the responsibilities of lawyers to represent low-income clients. Many of the concepts will be taught through the use of case studies; a client interview will be conducted, and court observation is required. Grade is based on oral case study presentation, written assignments, and class participation.

LAWS 5749. Prisoner Rights & Litigation. 3 Units.
This course explores the complex areas of habeas corpus and prisoner § 1983 litigation. The course explores the legal, procedural, social, economic and other issues surrounding federal court review of state court criminal convictions, conditions of confinement for prisoners, and prisoner rights. Topics will include standards of review, substantive rights, federal jurisdiction, and Constitutional reaches and limits.
LAWS 5750. Religion, Ethics, and the Law. 3 Units.
This is a paper seminar, limited to 12 students. The course will explore the interrelationship between religion, ethics, and the law in the American legal system. We will begin with a series of general questions. To what extent do we have true separation of church and state in American jurisprudence? Why should religious beliefs be given more deference than political opinions or other personal expressions? Does the law set the standard for public morality or reflect it? In order to establish a successful legal system, does society need to reach a consensus as to its moral and ethical values? When is the government ethically justified in punishing individuals for their misconduct, and what theories justify punishment within the criminal justice systems? In the second part of the course we will focus on a variety of issues that raise legal, ethical, and religious questions. Topics may include capital punishment euthanasia, genetic testing war crimes, and others.

LAWS 5751. Scientific Evidence in Criminal Litigation. 2 Units.
The legal issues associated with the use of scientific evidence at trial. It examines the admissibility of scientific evidence, expert testimony, and related issues. In addition, it considers specific techniques such as forensic pathology, fingerprint comparison, firearms identification, bite mark comparisons, questioned document examinations, and polygraph and DNA evidence testing. Outside experts are used to present many of the topics.

LAWS 5752. Selected Topics on American Legal Professions. 3 Units.
This seminar will consider the history, structure and demographics of the American legal profession. We will focus primarily on recent changes in the organization and operation of law practice and the effect of those trends on the delivery of legal services and the working lives of lawyers. Students will be required to write and present a substantial paper, which may satisfy the writing requirement. Grade is based on class participation, a presentation, and a paper.

LAWS 5753. Selected Topics in Family Law. 3 Units.
This course explores in depth the theory, doctrine and practical application of various topics within family law. The topics explored may include marriage, divorce, property division, spousal support, parent-child relations, child custody, visitation, child support, domestic violence, rights of unmarried partners, etc.

LAWS 5754. Energy Law. 2 - 3 Units.
Energy law is a large and growing area of increased importance. Energy use and production is subject to a wide range of state and federal laws. This course will focus on current energy law issues, particularly issues relating to production and use of electrical power. The course covers the interplay of state and federal regulation, utility rate regulation, energy production, and regulation of the environmental consequences of energy production and use, including climate change.

LAWS 5755. Sexual Orientation & the Law. 3 Units.
The course will address the development of legislation and case law dealing with LBGT rights in different practice areas including family law, estate planning, and employment law. Further, the course will deal with possible scenarios for future legislative and judicial activity.

LAWS 5758. Topics in Advanced Labor Law. 2 Units.
Covers relations between employers, employees, and unions not covered in the basic Labor Law Course (LAWS 359). Among topics included are hot cargo agreements, obligations of successor employers, duty to fair representation, union security, federal preemption of state labor legislation, internal union affairs, and labor law reform. Prereq: LAWS 5737.

LAWS 5761. Control of Toxins in Products and Workplaces. 3 Units.
This seminar will explore the regulation of potentially dangerous levels of toxic substances in products and workplaces. Particular attention will be devoted to considering the structure of the current legal framework for ensuring that the public is adequately represented in these highly complicated regulatory programs that impose substantial costs on manufacturers. After studying key aspects of the major federal programs that oversee the manufacture and marketing of toxins in products and workplaces, seminar participants will consider the role that the market and tort law play in supplementing regulation. Students will be expected to write a substantial research paper related to one to the themes of the course.

LAWS 5762. Urban Development Lab. 2 Units.
This course will involve students in an integrated experience of academic research and public service to the Greater Cleveland area. Students will work on semester long research projects arising from issues raised by local nonprofit development organizations and the development arms of other local nonprofit groups and government agencies. Specific topics will vary from semester to semester, but will generally fall within (i) barriers to development of urban properties, (ii) the role of local government and communities in encouraging or discouraging development projects and (iii) solutions for making urban areas, in general, and Cleveland, in particular, more livable and sustainable. When possible, students will present their findings directly to the organization (s) raising the issue. Students can expect direct or indirect exposure to aspects of real estate, finance, land use, tax and other regulatory law. Note: LL.M. courses have been inactivated.

LAWS 5763. White Collar Crime: Prosecution and Defense. 2 Units.
This course will engage students in a study of issues relating to the prosecution and defense of white collar crime in America, e.g., defining/understanding “white collar crime,” the role of the federal government in investigating and prosecuting white collar crime, corporate vs. individual responsibility, analyzing various white collar offenses: mail fraud and wire fraud, RICO, perjury/false statements/obstruction, securities fraud, and analysis of current white collar criminal prosecutions in the news (US v. Martha Stewart, the Adelphia prosecution, the Tyco prosecution, the Worldcom prosecution, the Traficant prosecution here in Cleveland), and exercises in prosecuting and defending white collar crime: investigations, charging decisions, and strategies in structuring a trial presentation and crafting jury addresses in complex white collar cases. As part of their final exam, students will be required to prepare and deliver a live jury summation (either for the government or the defense) in a mock white collar criminal case. Students will also sit for a short essay exam dealing with the various topics covered in class.

LAWS 5764. Workers’ Compensation. 2 Units.
Workers’ Compensation law and theory continue to evolve through statutory change and judicial decisions. The statutes deal with benefits for work-connected injury and disability. Course material is national in scope with an emphasis on corresponding Ohio cases. The course also touches on related areas of law, such as torts.

LAWS 5765. State and Local Government. 3 Units.
Examines the power of state and local governments. Among the topics considered are the purpose and role of local governments; the source and scope of local governmental power; state and federal constitutional restraints on local governmental activity; the distribution of powers between state government and local governments; and the various options by which state and local governments finance their activities.
LAWS 5766. Non-Capital Habeas Lab. 2 - 3 Units.
Students will be assigned to research, write, and litigate issues on live cases of both state and federal prisoners. As part of the course, students will learn how to properly and effectively represent clients in criminal cases through lecture, written assignments, oral advocacy and other skills-related activities. Prereq: LAWS 4808. Prereq or Coreq: LAWS 4807.

LAWS 5767. International Perspectives on Death Penalty. 3 Units.
The course will focus on the legal status of the death penalty as a matter of international law as well as the impact of international law on domestic use of death penalty with a focus on the United States. Topics to be explored include the role of the death penalty in international criminal justice, impact of domestic death penalty on international relations, foreign nationals on death row, mental illness and other status issues, and other procedural and substantive issues of retention and abolition.

LAWS 5768. Advanced Legal Writing. 3 Units.
This is an intensive course for students interested in taking the skills and lessons of the CaseArc courses and refining their written work product that this it stands out in the community. The course is a rigorous mixture of lecture, in-class exercises, at-home assignments, and peer reviews.

LAWS 5901. Advanced Civil Procedure. 4 Units.
This course will pick up where the 1L Civil Procedure course leaves off, exploring in greater depth topics raised by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Among the planned topics are the following: discovery (ranging from the practical, Pretrial Practice-type approach to a more conceptual, casebook-style approach); sanctions; multi-district litigation; finality (starting off from collateral estoppel/res judicata, through Rule 60, and including issues pertaining to the legislative revival of time-barred claims); appealability; class actions; injunctions.

LAWS 5902. Advanced Contracts. 3 Units.
We will examine the methodology of law and economics and of deontological approaches to contracts, legal realism, the methodology of default rules, gap filling and incomplete contracts, adjustment of long-terms contracts, employment contracts and the employment at will doctrine, promissory estoppel, relational contracts, incorporation strategies in the U.C.C. and the new formalism in Contracts.

LAWS 5903. Advanced Criminal Law Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar focuses on substantive criminal law rather than criminal procedure. It uses the first-year criminal law course as a foundation and examines a number of issues not typically covered in that course. Student interests will influence the topics chosen for examination, which will include: theft offenses, conspiracy, fetal abuse, decriminalization of drug use and commercial sex, and the roles of the executive, judicial, and legislative branches in making criminal law. Grade is based on class participation, a presentation, and a research paper.

LAWS 5904. Famous American Trials Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar is in part a course of American legal history and in part advanced evidence course. We will consider in some detail several (probably five) famous trials in American history, starting with the Salem witchcraft trials and ending (probably) with the trial of Charles Manson. For each trial considered, except the first, students will be expected to read an assigned book that concerns the trial and to address various issues for class discussion. Each student will also write a paper about a famous trial not covered in the assigned readings and make a presentation to the class regarding that case at the end of the semester. This seminar will be limited to 12 students and may be used to satisfy the writing requirement.

LAWS 5905. Advanced Evidence. 3 Units.
This seminar is designed to cover specific issues in evidence, e.g., privilege, toxic torts, computer-generated evidence, expert testimony, syndrome evidence, and profile evidence. A paper and presentation are required. The paper may satisfy the writing requirement.

LAWS 5906. African-American Lawyers Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar takes an interdisciplinary approach to the study of African-American lawyers. It examines aspects of the history of black lawyers in America, as well as topics relating to black lawyers in contemporary America. The course will situate these experiences in the context of both the history of the legal profession and the history of race relations and the struggle for civil rights in the United States. Students will prepare a substantial research paper and make an oral presentation of their research to the class. Limited to 12.

LAWS 5907. Arbitration Law and Practice Seminar. 2 Units.
This seminar will cover arbitration as a form of adjudication focusing on the law, processes, uses, and practice of arbitration. The seminar begins with a conceptual exploration of adjudication and arbitration and proceeds with discussions of the uses of arbitration to resolve commercial, international, labor, and consumer disputes. The seminar will next explore the relationship between arbitration and the courts examining the Federal Arbitration Act and State Law which includes preemption and choice of law issues, the agreement to arbitrate focusing on contract formation and arbitrability issues, and judicial supervision and review. Finally, the seminar will cover the arbitration proceeding itself with detailed looks at the selection and impartiality of the arbitrator as well as the role of lawyers, evidence, discovery, and interim measures in the conduct of the proceeding. Both trial and appellate simulations will be a feature of this seminar experience.

LAWS 5908. Constitutional Law Research Seminar. 2 Units.
This seminar permits students to write an in-depth paper, exploring an area of Constitutional Law most interesting to them. There are no explicit rules governing subject matter except that the paper must have, as its central focus, constitutional doctrine, policy, and/or analysis. Several classes will be held during the semester. The focus of these classes will be the process of writing a paper and the research tools available. A thesis statement, an outline, and at least one draft before the final paper are required. The grade will be based solely on the quality of the paper. The paper may be used to satisfy the writing requirement.

LAWS 5909. Current Controversies in Environmental Law. 3 Units.
This seminar will explore current legal and policy controversies in environmental law. Special attention will be paid to recent Supreme Court decisions and forthcoming environmental protection, federal courts, including current constitutional challenges to environmental programs and regulations. Issues likely to be discussed include the impact of recent federalism decisions on environmental protection, federal preemption of state regulation, environmental standing, the non-delegation doctrine, and cost-benefit analysis, among other topics. Students will read recent Supreme Court and Circuit court opinions, appellate briefs, academic commentary and supporting materials. Grade is based on class participation, final presentation, and a paper. Limited to 12.

LAWS 5910. Environmental Law Research Seminar. 2 Units.
This course is for those students who wish to fulfill the writing requirement by writing on a contemporary environmental law subject.
LAWS 5911. Issues in Election Law. 2 Units.
This course will examine recent and current issues and controversies related to U.S. election law. The course will focus on careful readings of relevant statutes, court decisions, and academic commentary on various election law questions, including ballot access, voter fraud, disenfranchisement, redistricting and gerrymandering, campaign finance, campaign speech, and election contests. The course will explore some of the legal questions that inevitably arise in the context of conducting democratic elections and how well courts and other legal institutions address these issues. Grades will be based exclusively upon short weekly writing assignments (1-3 pages) based upon the assigned reading and class participation. There will be no final exam.

LAWS 5912. Jurisprudence Seminar. 3 Units.
The seminar will explore classic jurisprudential questions using great works of literature as the vehicle through which the explorations will be made. The questions are: What is the nature of law? of justice? What is the nature of the obligation to obey or respect the law? Some of the texts which will be used include: “Antigone,” “The Merchant of Venice,” “Billy Budd,” “Man for all Seasons,” and “Judgment at Nureenberg.”

LAWS 5913. Labor and Employment Law Issues in the Global Economy. 3 Units.
This seminar will consider the impact of globalization on workers and labor law.

LAWS 5914. Professional Responsibility Advanced Research. 3 Units.
This seminar will allow students concurrently enrolled in Professional Responsibility (LAWS 375) to satisfy the upper-level writing requirement. Students will receive advanced instruction in legal research in Professional Responsibility and will be required to complete a series of written exercises, including drafting a rule and writing a brief and a judicial opinion. The exercise will include a series of planning questions to help students structure their work. Each exercise will require the students to develop expertise in an area of Professional Responsibility through performance in simulated professional roles. At least one oral presentation will be required.

LAWS 5915. Property Theory Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar is designed to allow students to explore discrete areas of Property Law in the context of a developing theoretical framework for understanding concepts of property. The seminar will be built around the manuscript for my book called: Property Law and Social Morality. In that book, I develop a theory of property law that builds on a conception of the appropriate interaction between people with respect to resources (following the general outlines of the theory in my Tort Law and Social Morality). During the early weeks of the semester, students will read selected chapters from the draft of the book, as well as alternative theories drawn from law and economics, corrective justice, and rights-based literature. Students will then analyze a property law topic of their choosing in light of the theories presented in my book and our class discussions. A student might, for example, study the application of the theory to doctrines of Adverse Possession, shopping center development, and planned communities. Their analysis will either accept or refute the theory and will result in a publishable paper that they present to the class.

LAWS 5916. Religion Clauses of First Amendment Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar will explore the constitutional doctrines relating to the Free Exercise Clause and the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment. The readings will include key Supreme Court cases demonstrating the evolution of free exercise and Establishment Clause doctrines, as well as some historical materials, but we will also maintain a focus on current First Amendment controversies, such as school vouchers, faith-based government funding initiatives, and religious symbols on public property. Grade is based on class participation, final presentation, and a paper. Limited to 12.

LAWS 5917. Remedies. 2 Units.
This seminar provides students with both a broad survey of the law of civil remedies and a chance to focus individual research on a particular area of interest within that broad survey. The law of remedies focuses on what happens after the merit of a case has been decided; how does the court provide redress to the successful litigant? This seminar examines concepts of corrective justice, the institutional incentives created by different types of remedies, and related policy issues. Topics include “private” remedies (tort, contract, etc.), “public remedies,” such as civil rights actions in which plaintiffs seek broad injunctive relief, and specialized areas of public-policy concern such as punitive damages and remedies in class-action suits.

LAWS 5918. Reproductive Rights Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar will cover the basics of the Supreme Court’s reproductive rights jurisprudence and will look at a series of topics relating to the reproductive rights law and policy, including “partial-birth” abortion and the health exception; minors’ access to abortion, contraception, and sex education; reproductive rights and religion; and assisted reproductive technologies. In addition to various interim writing assignments, you will be required to submit a substantial paper by the end of the semester. Prereq: LAWS 5717.

LAWS 5919. Scientific Evidence and Advanced Research. 2 Units.
Students must be concurrently enrolled in LAWS 214 (no exceptions). Enrollment limited to six students.

LAWS 5920. Settlement Law Seminar. 2 - 3 Units.
This seminar will examine the theory and practice of settlement of disputes. Matters to be considered include: the practical issues of how one negotiates the settlement and drafts settlement documents; the theoretical issues of why some cases settle and why some do not; the appropriate role of judges and mediators in facilitating settlements, and the procedural and substantive law affecting the settlement of law suits. Grade is based on a presentation and a paper. Enrollment is limited to 12.

LAWS 5921. Social History of Crime Seminar. 3 Units.
This course is designed to offer students a somewhat different optic on the way that law operates in society, different, that is, from the sense one might get from reading case books. Here our concern is with the meaning of law in the largest sense, not so much from the standpoint of legal doctrine, but in the sense of how it works as a system of power to advance certain interests in society at the expense of less powerful groups. By “social history” I refer to the study of ordinary people, as opposed to political leaders and rulers. Thus the course explores how the law played out in the lives of ordinary men and women during the period from the eighteenth century to the present. What is a crime? How have certain customary rights been criminalized and why? What are the ideological underpinnings of the law? These are some of the questions we will take up as we examine crime in Britain and the U.S. from a thematic perspective.
LAWS 5922. Supreme Court Seminar. 3 Units.
Students will examine the judicial process in the U.S. Supreme Court, including the nature of decision-making in a multi-member tribunal, procedural and jurisdictional issues, and the development of a justice’s jurisprudential philosophy. Students follow and analyze a particular justice or an aspect of the Court’s operation. May satisfy the writing requirement.

LAWS 5923. Torts Theory Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar will allow students to examine theories of justice in the context of tort law. In the seminar, we will be reading and discussing a series of articles that seek to provide a basis for understanding and evaluating tort doctrine. This will include readings concerning the economic approach, the corrective justice approach, and approaches based on distributive justice. The doctrine that we study will be that which is familiar from the first year course: strict liability, the requirements of the reasonable person, proximate cause, duty and product liability. Students will pick an area of tort doctrine and write a paper that will apply one or more theories to that area. A student might, for example, examine a manufacturer’s duty to warn consumers about possible harm in the use of the product, and would write a paper helping us to understand that duty in light of economic and corrective justice theories.

LAWS 5924. White Collar Crime Research Seminar. 2 Units.
This seminar focuses on white collar crime. Topics include insider trading, extortion, loansharking, bribery, embezzlement, corporate fraud, blackmail and internet-related criminal activity. Students will complete a substantial research paper and will present the results of their research to the class.

LAWS 5925. Wrongful Convictions Seminar. 3 Units.
This course focuses on the causes of wrongful convictions, including eyewitness misidentifications, false confessions, jailhouse informants, scientific fraud, prosecutorial misconduct, and ineffective assistance of defense counsel. Remedies to prevent the conviction of the innocent are also discussed. A paper and presentation are required. Prereq or Coreq: LAWS 4808.

LAWS 5926. 14th Amendment Seminar. 3 Units.
This seminar focuses on the Fourteenth Amendment through Supreme Court cases and the social implications of these holdings. We will discuss the definition of equality under the law and approaches to reaching equity goals. Students should gain a frame work for comparing equity arguments asserted in a variety of settings for different groups, e.g., gender in employment settings, wealth discrimination, and race in education.

LAWS 5927. Law and the 1960s. 3 Units.
The seminar will focus on law, politics, and society in the 1960s. The 1960s were the high water mark for legal liberalism, the belief that courts could affect liberal social policy. During that decade rights consciousness prompted litigation that pushed the courts to extend the limits of legal liberalism. The conjunction of triumphant legal liberalism and rights consciousness prompted critiques from both the right and the left, which had an important impact on legal institutions and the law. Students will examine the legal history of the 1960s in the context of the political, social, intellectual, and jurisprudential movements of the era.

LAWS 5928. Incarceration & Reintegration. 2 Units.
This course will serve as a primer on the trend towards mass incarceration in the United States and the legal issues that phenomenon presents. The course will focus on the constitutional and liability issues presented by private prisons, the intersection of race and gender with imprisonment and also the legal collateral consequences of incarceration and its effects on the reintegration of the formerly incarcerated.

LAWS 5937. Remedies in Transnational Ltgn. 1 Unit.
Topics include enforcement of foreign judgments (with particular attention to libel judgments and to cases involving punitive damages); antisuit injunctions; forum non conveniens and abstention in favor of parallel proceedings; enforcement of arbitration awards, and other issues arising in transnational litigation. Students will consider the policy and theory underlying the law of remedies and will gain a better understanding of how litigation proceeds in a global context. Coreq: LAWS 5917.

LAWS 5941. Environmental History and the Law. 3 Units.
This seminar is designed to introduce students to the relatively new and exciting field of environmental history and explain how it can help us better understand the law. Our concern in this course is not so much with black letter law, but with the larger ecological and historical context in which the law is formed. We will concern ourselves especially with the ways in which the law was used to transform the natural world, focusing exclusively on this story as it unfolded in the United States. Our goal is to see not just how law shaped nature, but also how the complexities of the natural world have affected legal doctrine. May satisfy the writing requirement.

LAWS 6001. Civil Litigation Clinic. 3 Units.
In this course, students handle various kinds of civil disputes on behalf of consumers who need legal assistance but cannot afford to pay for a private lawyer. Students are responsible for all phases of litigation, including the initial client interview and case assessment, preparation of pleadings and motions, conducting discovery, settlement negotiations, and, if necessary, trying the case before a judge or jury. A weekly two-hour seminar session provides a regular forum for learning the substantive law that applies to the students’ caseloads, as well as discussion of the various legal, professional, and ethical issues that arise in the cases. In addition, after completing required basic mediation training, students act as mediators in small claims and/or landlord-tenant cases in municipal court. Students must be enrolled in and complete both semesters to receive credit. Prereq: LAWS 4808.

LAWS 6002. Civil Litigation Clinic. 3 Units.
Continuation of LAWS 6001. Both semesters must be completed before credit is given.

LAWS 6011. Community Development Clinic I. 3 Units.
This is a year-long course; students must complete both semesters to receive credit. Students represent business and non-profit entities in formation of their businesses and to obtain tax exemption for non-profit corporations. They act as general counsel helping their clients plan for future projects and activities and operate in compliance with law that regulates their activities. Students may also help to structure tax, real estate and corporate transactions for entities. Students may have the opportunity to work on simple intellectual property matters including trademark, tradename and copyright registrations, as well as website issues and nondisclosure agreements. This clinic is primarily transactional in nature and is designed to expose students to the special problems encountered in representing entities and in structuring transactions. Seminar sessions will be devoted to discussions of applicable law pertaining to specific cases students are working on and development of the skills necessary to represent individuals and entities in transactional matters. Students also will be exposed to the ethical problems associated with entity representation. Prereq or Coreq: LAWS 4401.

LAWS 6012. Community Development Clinic II. 3 Units.
(See LAWS 6011.)
LAWS 6021. Criminal Justice Clinic I. 3 Units.
Students handle a limited number of misdemeanor cases in municipal courts throughout Cuyahoga County. The seminar sessions are devoted to discussions of cases being handled by the students and to ethical and strategic considerations of criminal law practice, trial tactics, and plea bargaining. Hypothetical case studies are also used to increase the breadth of the students’ exposure to the criminal justice system. Each student also handles some prosecution in local court. Prereq: LAWS 4807.

LAWS 6022. Criminal Justice Clinic II. 3 Units.
Continuation of LAWS 6021. Both semesters must be completed before credit is given.

LAWS 6031. Health Law Clinic I. 3 Units.
Students represent clients in social security disability claims, adult guardianships, health insurance claims and disputes, access to health care, special education for disabled children, nursing home transfers and discharges, and other health and disability law-related issues. They investigate complaints in nursing home and represent clients in administrative and court proceedings. A major part of the student’s responsibilities is to analyze the problems and determine the best way of resolving them. Seminar sessions are primarily devoted to specific skills and to discussions of matters being handled by the students. The ethical and practical problems encountered in health law practice are emphasized, as well as legal theory. This is a year-long course; students must be enrolled in and complete both semesters of work to receive credit. Prereq: LAWS 4808 and (LAWS 4200 or LAWS 4201).

LAWS 6032. Health Law Clinic II. 3 Units.
Continuation of LAWS 6031. Both semesters must be completed before credit is given.

LAWS 6041. Intellectual Property Venture Clinic. 3 Units.
The IP Venture Clinic will provide students with the opportunity to represent start-up companies and entrepreneurs and focus on intellectual property protection, technology assessment, corporate formation, confidentiality agreements and trade secret protection, material transfer agreements, technology valuation, opportunity analysis, private securities offerings, and technology transactions. The clinic provides opportunities to work collaboratively with inventors, MBA students, licensing managers, outside counsel, and venture capitalists. Prereq: LAWS 4302.

LAWS 6101. Immigration Law Practicum I. 3 Units.
The immigration Practicum provides an opportunity for students of achieve practical immigration experience by working with real-life situations before the immigration Court and the USCIS. Students will work on pending matters that may include preparation of legal memoranda or briefs, applications for relief (such as asylum, cancellation of removal, protection under the Violence Against Women, protections of non-citizen victims of domestic violence), and evidentiary submissions for pending cases. Students are required to attend master (preliminary) and individual hearings, and a pro bono refugee clinic offered with the Catholic Charities or Legal Aid Society. This is a year-long course. Prereq: LAWS 5733.

LAWS 6102. Immigration Law Practicum II. 3 Units.
The immigration Practicum provides an opportunity for students of achieve practical immigration experience by working with real-life situations before the immigration Court and the USCIS. Students will work on pending matters that may include preparation of legal memoranda or briefs, applications for relief (such as asylum, cancellation of removal, protection under the Violence Against Women, protections of non-citizen victims of domestic violence), and evidentiary submissions for pending cases. Students are required to attend master (preliminary) and individual hearings, and a pro bono refugee clinic offered with the Catholic Charities or Legal Aid Society. This is a year-long course. Prereq: LAWS 5733 and LAWS 6101.

LAWS 6103. Basic Mediation Training. 1 Unit.
This course provides students with basic mediation training. After successful completion, students will be certified, allowing them to serve as volunteer mediators in forums where basic training is required.

LAWS 6104. Eminent Domain Law: Litigation Techniques and Trial Practice. 2 Units.
This course will provide students with a study of the law of eminent domain as it has evolved under the US Constitution and State of Ohio laws, with a special focus on the emerging law that has developed on the last decade. Will provide a special opportunity for students to understand the techniques and strategy of the litigation of modern eminent domain actions, both from the perspective of the acquiring agency as well as the private property owner. Also, provides exposure to the trial of an eminent domain action, both from the perspective of the acquiring agency as well as the private property owner. Also, provides exposure to the trial of an eminent domain action and special techniques, strategies, and practice pointers related to the successful trial of right to take proceedings before a judge and the trial of jury actions on issues of compensations.

LAWS 6106. Pretrial Practice: Medical Malpractice. 2 Units.
This advanced skills course is a specialized version of the Pretrial Practice (Civil) course. The focus is on the work of counsel for plaintiffs and defense counsel in medical malpractice cases including pleading, discovery, motion practice, and settlement negotiation. The course will emphasize the special problems confronted in medical malpractice cases such as obtaining and interpreting medical records and dealing with expert medical witnesses.

LAWS 6107. Pretrial Practice: Civil. 2 Units.
This course picks up where most first-year legal research and writing courses leave off. We will examine intensively, among other things, the various discovery devices (including depositions, interrogatories, document requests, and requests to admit), pretrial motion practice, litigation as a means of achieving the best possible negotiated result, and alternative dispute resolution mechanisms (including mediation and arbitration). In other words, we will study the things that litigators spend most of their time doing and thinking about: how lawyers go about gathering and preserving evidence, the everyday interactions they have with courts, and the reasons they do all these things even though they rarely expect to get all the way to trial. The course will include simulations and extensive drafting assignments.
LAWS 6108. Pretrial Practice: Criminal. 2 Units.
This course introduces students to the key activities lawyers undertake in a criminal case in advance of trial. This course examines the various steps leading up to trial, such as the preparation of an indictment, the drafting of discovery requests, motion practice related to discovery and the suppression of evidence, preparation and negotiation of plea agreements, and other motion practice related to the pre-trial phase. This course is designed to expose students to the pretrial phase in a criminal case from the perspective of both the prosecution and defense. Anticipated topics for discussion will include case investigation, the gathering of evidence, pretrial problems typically encountered in a criminal case, and the role sentencing guidelines can have in shaping plea negotiations and other pretrial negotiations. The course will include simulations, drafting assignments, opportunities for mock oral argument, and negotiating exercises. Limited to 12 students.

LAWS 6110. Trial Tactics. 4 Units.
An intensive course in trial tactics, techniques, and advocacy. The emphasis during the first half of the semester is on practice in the separate components of a trial: direct examination, objections, cross-examination, use of rehabilitative devices, examination of expert witnesses, jury selection, opening statements, closing argument, and pretrial preparation. During the second half of the semester each student acts as co-counsel in a full trial. Videotape recording is used for critiquing student performance throughout the semester. Students may not take both LAWS 397 and LAWS 395 (Trial Practice). Prereq: LAWS 4808.

LAWS 6111. Appellate Practice. 3 Units.
This course is designed to teach students the rules and formalities of appellate practice and help students develop the skills necessary to write an effective appellate brief and present a persuasive oral argument. During the first semester students research and write an appellate brief and engage in short in-class oral arguments. During the second semester students receive instruction on the organization and presentation of longer oral arguments, engage in a practice oral round and receive an individualized critique of their performance. They complete the course by competing in the Dunmore Moot Court Tournament, which culminates in a final round oral argument before sitting judges in the spring. Prereq: LAWS 1801 and LAWS 1802.

LAWS 6501. Canada - United States Law Journal. 0 Units.
Students enrolled in this non-credit course will serve as writers and editors for the annually published Canada - U.S. Law Journal.

LAWS 6503. Health Matrix Seminar. 2 Units.
Students write their Health Matrix notes through the year-long Health Matrix Seminar. Students work closely with the instructor to develop their topics, outlines, several drafts, and final notes. The course will include multiple individual meetings with the professor, extensive feedback, and oral presentations of the papers. Students will develop their writing and oral presentation skills and will receive training concerning advanced legal research, plagiarism, and statutory interpretation. 2L associates also will have responsibilities for journal production work, such as verifying footnotes.

LAWS 6504. Law Review Seminar. 2 Units.
The seminar will provide training in writing, editorial skills, and advanced legal research for students writing notes for the Case Western Reserve Law Review. Topics to be covered include plagiarism, selecting a topic, web-based research, advanced Lexis and Westlaw research, advanced research training in selected substantive areas, and writing techniques. Satisfactory completion of the note will satisfy the upper-level writing requirement. Grade based on the quality of the note and class participation.

LAWS 6505. Law, Technology and Internet Journal. 0 - 3 Units.
The Journal of Law, Technology and the Internet Seminar offers students interested in technology and intellectual property the opportunity to write their notes through a year-long seminar. Students work closely with the instructor to develop their topics, thesis, outlines, and final note. Students will have numerous individual meetings with the professor and extensive feedback of the papers. Students will develop their writing skills, learn about plagiarizing, and will receive training concerning advanced legal research. 2L associates will be trained for journal production work such as verifying citations. The course will also include 3-4 whole group meetings through the quarter. Second year students will also be responsible for performing an in-depth evaluation of the article accepted through the peer-review process. 2L editors will ensure that submitted articles have not been preempted by any article already in print. Once an article has been approved by the Faculty Peer-Reviewers, 2L editors will be given portions of the article for which they are responsible for verifying all citations, and performing textual edits required to bring the article into compliance with Journal policies.

LAWS 6600. Supervised Research Seminar. 1 - 2 Unit.
Second- and third-year students may earn graded credit for an individual research project of scholarly depth and scope, under the close supervision of a faculty member. Approval of the faculty supervisor is required before registration. No student may undertake more than two Supervised Research projects or earn more than a total of four hours of Supervised Research credit. No student may work on more than one Supervised Research project in one semester. May satisfy the writing requirement.

LAWS 6701. CaseArc Honors Fellow Program. 1 Unit.
CaseArc Honors Fellows serve for either one semester of the full year as teaching assistants in the CaseArc program. With training, guidance, and under the supervision of the CaseArc faculty, the Honors Fellows work closely in small groups or one-on-one with students on their writing projects, in-class exercises and preparation for simulations. In addition to meeting regularly with students, Honors Fellows may participate for simulations, judge oral arguments and assist with research training. Overall, the Honors Fellows serve as mentors to their assigned students to help them make the most of the CaseArc courses and the law school experience in general.
LAWS 6705. Curricular Training: Law Field Research. 0 Units.
This course is intended exclusively for the foreign national J.D. or LL.M. law student who wishes to gain applied legal experience based on their intended career path with an organization that offers course credit for internship experience. These internships may be either paid or unpaid. This course will provide a means for the student to build required skills and bridge the gap between the classroom and real world application. The student is encouraged to explore and discover additional avenues to assist in the management and advancement of his/her career. Does not count toward J.D. credit.

LAWS 7001. Access to Justice Externship. 3 Units.
This is an externship program in which students work at the Legal Aid Society of Cleveland for 12 hours per week with and under the direct supervision of Legal Aid attorneys. (For the summer program, students will work full time for 10 weeks during the summer months.) Students will research substantive and procedural legal issues, draft memoranda, and assist with preparation of cases. Students will work on a variety of issues, depending on student interest and agency need. In the past students have worked on substantive matters in the areas of family law, bankruptcy, housing, worker’s compensation, government benefits, special education and immigration. Students will interact with the law school faculty liaison through journals and periodic meetings to discuss and further reflect upon the externship experience. For more information about the Legal Aid Society of Cleveland, students are encouraged to visit http://www.lasclev.org/.

LAWS 7005. City Law Externship. 3 - 4 Units.
This is an externship program in which students approved by the City attorneys will work at the City of Cleveland Law Department for 12 hours per week, with and under the direct supervision of Law Dept attorneys on civil cases, or under the supervision of the Cleveland City Prosecutor, on criminal cases. Students will research substantive and procedural legal issues, draft memoranda, analyze information obtained through discovery and research, and assist with preparation of cases. Students with legal intern certificates may appear in court. Students will also attend periodic meetings in which they will review and reflect upon the work engaged in on the cases assigned, learn about other substantive law dealt with in the various sections of the law department’s mission and jurisdiction. Topics in these discussions may include substantive law dealt with the various cases before the EEOC and various lawyering skills, including drafting opinions, as well as topics like negotiation, settlement, and professionalism. Students will interact with the law school faculty liaison through journals and periodic meetings to discuss and further reflect upon the externship experience. For more information about the City of Cleveland Law Department, students are encouraged to visit http://www.city.cleveland.oh.us/government/departments/law/lawind.html

LAWS 7009. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Externship. 3 - 4 Units.
This is an externship program in which students approved by the EEOC Chief Administrative Judge will work at the EEOC’s local office for 12 hours per week during the academic semester, or 40 hours per week for nine weeks during the summer, with and under the direct supervision of Administrative Judges primarily on litigation matters. Students will gain legal and practical experience in administrative law and employment discrimination issues, including those that fall under the statutes that the EEOC enforces: Title VII, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, and the Equal Pay Act. The students will work with EEOC’s local Administrative Judges who adjudicate cases brought by federal employees against various federal agencies under these statutes. Students will also attend periodic meetings in which they will review and reflect upon the work engaged in on the matters assigned, learn about other EEOC matters, and discuss various topics relating to the EEOC’s mission and jurisdiction. Topics in these discussions may include substantive law dealt with the various cases before the EEOC and various lawyering skills, including drafting opinions, as well as topics like negotiation, settlement, and professionalism. Students will interact with the law school faculty liaison through journals and periodic meetings to discuss and further reflect upon the externship experience.

LAWS 7015. Federal Public Defender Externship. 3 Units.
This externship program will give students an opportunity to observe and participate in many facets of federal criminal procedure and practice. Under the supervision of the Federal Public Defender and his staff, students will research and draft legal memoranda, pre-trial motions, sentencing motions, and appellate briefs. Students will also observe court proceedings and assist in trial and hearing preparation. Students will work on a variety of cases, including drug, firearm, fraud, and white collar crime. Given the pace and work demands of the Office of the Federal Defender, this externship program will have students assisting with substantive legal work.

LAWS 7019. Federal Trade Commission Externship. 3 Units.
This externship program will expose students to federal civil practice involving the Federal Trade Commission in a range of civil matters primarily focused on the FTC’s consumer protection mission. The externship includes seminar-style discussions with both junior and senior FTC litigators in the East Central Region office. Students will assist FTC attorneys and staff in the preparation and presentation of their cases.

LAWS 7022. General Counsel Externship. 3 - 4 Units.
This is an externship program in which students selected by the law school will work at the Office of the General Counsel of John Carroll University, for approximately 12 hours per week during the fall or spring semester. During the summer, students will work full time for approximately 9 weeks. Students will work under the direct supervision of the General Counsel or her staff on pending matters. They will engage in a variety of activities including legal research, fact investigation, preserving testimony of witnesses via affidavits, client interviews, reviewing and drafting of memoranda and policies, contracts and other corporate documents. Students will focus on legal issues involving corporate law and governance, contracts, employment law, as well as other legal issues unique to higher education. Students will also attend regularly scheduled discussions in which they will review the work they have completed, and various topics relating to the practice of the Office of General Counsel. Students will interact with a law school faculty liaison through journals and periodic meetings to discuss and further reflect upon the externship experience. Students must be approved by the Office of General Counsel.
LAWS 7028. Hospital Law Externship. 3 Units.
This is an externship program in which students will work in the general counsel’s office of a large hospital center. Participating hospitals are the MetroHealth System, Summa Health System, University Hospitals of Cleveland, and the Cleveland Clinic Foundation. Students will be selected by the law school and, in some cases, with the participation of the supervising hospital attorney. Students will work in the office of the general counsel for approximately 12 hours per week during the spring semester. Students will work under the direct supervision of a supervising attorney. They will engage in a variety of activities including conducting legal research, drafting memoranda, letters, and other documents, and preparing presentations to hospital attorneys. Students also will shadow their supervising attorney and participate in day-to-day activities of the office. Additionally, students will work with client departments and departmental staff to gather information and to gain insight into and understanding of the clinical, business, and health care operations of a large health system.

LAWS 7035. International Tribunal Externship. 12 Units.
This program provides opportunity for students to participate in a semester long program with a tribunal program arranged through the Cox International Law Center.

LAWS 7040. Internal Revenue Service Externship. 3 Units.
This externship program will expose students to federal civil tax practice involving the IRS and Office of IRS Chief Counsel, including a broad range of issues involving the assessment and collection of federal taxes. The externship includes seminar discussions and placement in the local office of IRS Chief Counsel. Students will assist the attorneys in providing legal assistance to IRS personnel, in federal tax litigation in the U.S. Tax Court, and providing legal assistance to the U.S. Attorney’s Office in federal tax litigation.

LAWS 7045. Judicial Externship Seminar. 4 Units.
Students in the spring of their first year are selected for summer externships with specific federal district and circuit judges. Classes in the spring of the first year, during the externship summer, and in the fall of the second year complement the eight weeks of externing in the judge’s chamber. Recommended preparation: Permission of the instructors.

LAWS 7048. Ohio Appeals Court Externship. 3 - 4 Units.
This is an externship program in which students approved by the judges involved will work at an Ohio appellate court for 12 hours per week during the academic semester, or 40 hours per week for 9 weeks during the summer, with and under the direct supervision of the judges and their staff. The externship will involve research and writing support for one or more of the appellate judges. It will expose the student to the inner workings of the appellate courts, including the process of preparing for oral argument, review of briefing, and drafting of opinions. The extern will also have direct and regular contact with the assigned judge(s) and other court personnel and will have several opportunities to observe oral arguments. Students will also attend periodic meetings in which they will review and reflect upon their work on the matters assigned, learn about other pending matters, and discuss various topics relating to the work of the courts. Topics in these discussions may include substantive or procedural issues dealt with in the various cases before the courts and various lawyering skills, including drafting opinions, as well as topics including ethics and professionalism is appellate practice. The faculty supervisor will meet weekly with the extern to discuss the experience, provide feedback on the extern’s weekly journal, and to amplify the extern’s understanding of the substantive legal issues involved in the extern’s work.

LAWS 7050. Prosecutor’s Office Externship. 3 - 4 Units.
This externship program will expose students to many facets of state criminal practice through their placement in a particular division of the Prosecutor’s office including, for example, the Grand Jury Division, Children and Family Services Division, Juvenile Division, Felony Trial Division, and the Appellate Division.

LAWS 7061. United States Attorney Externship: Criminal. 3 Units.
This is an externship program in which students selected by the law school will work at the United States Attorney’s Office in Cleveland for 12 hours per week, with and under the direct supervision of Assistant U.S. Attorneys on cases under investigation or being prosecuted by that office. Most cases will involve general crimes (robbery, theft, immigration, etc.), or offenses involving drugs or firearms. Students will observe and, in some cases, participate (as assistants to the AUSA on the case) in court proceedings, and will work on projects to assist in the prosecution of the cases to which they are assigned. Students will also attend a 1-hour weekly seminar in which they will review and reflect upon the court proceedings observed and the work engaged in on the cases assigned, and discuss various topics relating to federal criminal law and prosecutions. Topics in the seminar may include arrest through indictment, seizures and warrants, pretrial proceedings, plea bargaining, sentencing, discovery, pretrial conferences, jury selection and trials, post conviction proceedings, trial skills and appeals. Students must be approved by the United States Attorney following completion, review and approval of a security clearance application. Prereq: LAWS 4808, LAWS 4807 and LAWS 2001.

LAWS 7062. U.S. Attorney Externship: Civil. 3 Units.
This is an externship program in which students selected by the law school will work at the United States Attorney’s Office in Cleveland for 12 hours per week, with and under the direct supervision of Assistant US Attorneys on civil cases being handled by that office. Most cases will involve torts, employment discrimination, immigration and prisoner habeas, administrative appeals, environmental enforcement, bankruptcy, debt collection and civil fraud. Students will observe and, in some cases, participate (as assistants to the AUSA on the case) in pretrial and court proceedings, and will work on projects to assist in the prosecution of the cases to which they are assigned. Students will research significant legal issues, draft briefs and pleadings and assist with witness and exhibit preparation. Students will also attend a 1-hour weekly seminar in which they will review and reflect upon the court proceedings observed and the work engaged in on the cases assigned, and discuss various topics relating to federal civil litigation involving the government. Topics in the seminar may include authority and responsibility of the U.S. Attorney, ethics, litigation with the government, discovery and pre-trial practice, expert witnesses, damages, compromise and settlement, sanctions and civility.
