

NONPROFIT ORGANIZATION, MNO/SOCIAL WORK, MSW

More Information: <https://case.edu/socialwork/academics/dual-degrees/social-work-and-nonprofit-management>

Degree: Master of Nonprofit Organization (MNO)

Program Information: bulletin.case.edu/applied-social-sciences/programs/nonprofit-organizations-mno/

Degree: Master of Social Work (MSW)

Program Information: bulletin.case.edu/applied-social-sciences/programs/social-work-msw/

Program Overview

The dual degree in social work and non-profit organization offered by the Jack, Joseph and Morton Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences prepares students for leadership and management positions in human service organizations. Students may pursue either the Community Practice in Social Change concentration or the Direct Practice concentration. Further, this dual degree will place graduates into nonprofit management, administration, leadership, and research positions, which promises a great potential to influence the well-being of vulnerable groups and improve lives on a greater scale. MSW/MNO dual degree students may apply for graduation in the term in which all requirements for the degree have been completed. It is not required that the MSW and MNO be awarded simultaneously.

Program Requirements

For more information on this dual degree program, including a detailed list of required courses, please contact Dr. Rob Fischer.